

NIGHT EDITION

JUMPED INTO CANAL

A STRANGER SOMEWHAT INEBRIATED, MISTAKING THE CANAL FOR A FIELD, VAULTS OVER THE FENCE IN THE ANNE ST. PARK AND HAS A NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING.

Fitchburg Man Wanted to Sleep in the Canal

Robert Wheeler, a young man about 30 years old, narrowly escaped drowning last night when by mistake he jumped into the Merrimack canal in Anne street. As it was the young man got out of it with a cold water bath, a ride to the police station in the new auto patrol and a $2 fine.

Wheeler, who hails from Fitchburg, came to this city in search of work, inasmuch as he was pretty thirsty after a long ride on the electric, he thought the best way to start in was to quench his thirst, and so he did. He visited several liquor shops and indulged considerably of the foamy white on his tongue.

Finally when he was overladen he was badly in need of a sleep and passing by the Anne street park, he made up his mind that the place was a desirable one for a nap. So he walked to the canal's edge and vaulted over the fence, expecting to land in a nice soft hay field. The result was that he plunged into the water over his head.

A young man, whose name could not be learned, saw the act, and thinking it was a case of suicide, ran to the rescue of the unfortunate man whom after considerable work he succeeded in bringing to shore. The drunken man was removed to No. 29 Anne street, where part of his clothing was taken off and dried. Stimulants were administered him and Police Officer Killay was sent for.

The latter sent in a call for the auto patrol and Wheeler, doubly soaked, was sent to police headquarters. He was arraigned before Judge Hadley this morning and pleaded guilty to the charge of drunkenness. A $2 fine was imposed.

A NOVEL POINT

Brought Out in Case in Police Court Today

Several offenders were arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning, but their cases were disposed of in brief time.

The case of Theophilus Lufieriere, who is charged with unlawfully removing baggage from the boarding-house of Mrs. Georgianna Perron which came up before the court some day last week, was again continued for one month.

Lufieriere, it is claimed, owes $35 for board to Mrs. Ferron, and he removed his baggage without settling his bill or notifying his boarding mistress. A point of law was brought out in the case this morning when it was stated that Mrs. Perron had not complied with the law by posting in every room a copy of the statutes of the law in regard to the alleged offense. So therefore, the defendant was not aware of the law and his guilt is only technical. He was held in the sum of $1 to appear a month from today.

Michael Senecal pleaded not guilty to the complaint charging him with the larceny of a matter valued at $2 from Louis Harris and his case was continued for a day.

The case of the Livingston Grain Co. for violation of the Feed Stuff law, that is exposing for sale gluten feed without having a printed statement required by law affixed in their place of business, was continued.

Drunkness

Augustus Callo, charged with being drunk, pleaded not guilty through his counsel, Joseph E. Loughran, Esq., but after hearing the testimony the court found the defendant guilty and ordered him to be placed on probation with a suspended sentence of two months in jail.

John McGinness, who was under a suspended sentence to the state farm, had his former sentence revoked and was therefore committed.

Edmond St. Peter and John Brennan, for a second offense of drunkenness, were fined $6 each, and two first offenders were released with a $2 fine.

CIVIL SERVICE

Spanish War Vets Want Concessions

Adj. Gen. Gardner W. Pearson was before the committee on public service of the legislature yesterday afternoon in support of a bill providing that in civil service examinations for the labor service veterans of the Spanish war shall have a preference to all other persons except women and veterans of the Civil war.

Others who favored the bill were Judge Edward L. Logan of South Boston, Whitfield Tuck, Henry J. McCannan, Senator James F. Powers and Representative William L. V. Newton.

Arthur H. Brooks opposed the bill. J. Pennington Gardner of Cohasset, who served in Col. Roosevelt's regiment in the Spanish war, quoted his old commander as having said that the men who enlisted but were not called into active service are deserving of more credit than those who were obliged to go into battle.

Ex-Senator John Read of Cambridge opposed the bill as class legislation. The hearing was closed.

GRAVES IS NAMED

For Surveyor of Port of Boston

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—The name of Edward G. Graves was sent to the senate by the president this afternoon to be surveyor of the port of Boston. As there is no opposition to Mr. Graves his confirmation is assured.

Although there were several candidates for the place, Mr. Graves' strongest opponent was W. W. Lufkin, Representative Gardner's secretary. Ex-Speaker Cole of the Massachusetts legislature was in the race for a while, but dropped out a week or two ago when he found Graves and Lufkin were in the lead.

Imperial, Merrimack, tonight.

FIREMEN INJURED

SKETCH SHOWING THE FIRE AT THE NAVY YARD LAST NIGHT. THE THREE FIREMEN ARE SHOWN FALLING FROM THE LADDER WHICH BROKE

Disastrous Blaze Broke Out in Dracut Navy Yard

One of the most dangerous fires in the history of the town of Dracut broke out about midnight last night in the property of Mrs. Phoebe Ames in the Navy Yard district and before the blaze was extinguished, $8,000 worth of property had been destroyed.

The fire gained great headway before it was discovered. The Dracut fire department was soon on the scene but was unable to cope with the flames and a telephone call and a bell alarm from box 165 at the corner of Lakeview avenue and Fred street brought a large portion of the Lowell fire department to the scene and the fire was confined to the Ames property.

Lieut. James J. McCaffrey, Hoseman E. S. Barnes, and Callman Fred Mansur of Hose 10 in Fourth street had narrow escapes from being killed as a result of a fall from an extension ladder, which was laid against the side of the Ames house.

The three men were directing a line of hose into the burning building when the rope used for hoisting the ladder broke and the extension dropped, causing the men to be thrown to the ground.

The blaze from the burning buildings illuminated the sky for miles around and despite the darkness of the hour hundreds of people were attracted to the scene and remained there until the local department left the place.

The wind waited the flying embers towards other buildings and the firemen were kept busy protecting adjoining property. The large car barn of the Boston & Northern Street Railway Co. in Lakeview avenue, which contains thousands of dollars' worth of valuable property was in great danger of being destroyed but for the zealous work of the members of the local fire department, who kept that as well as other property in the vicinity protected.

Easy Prey for Flames

The buildings, which are of wooden construction, are located at the corner of Lakeview avenue and Pleasant street and the fire when fanned by the strong north wind which was blowing caused the flames to eat through the buildings with lightning like rapidity.

The blaze was discovered by Philip O'Brien, a motorman on the Boston & Northern. While passing the corner he noticed the flames creeping out from the story and a link structure which connected the Ames homestead facing on Pleasant street, with the large wooden building which fronts on Lakeview avenue. The latter building containing two unoccupied tenements and William Keefe's barber shop and pool room.

Neighborhood Aroused

Word was sent to the Navy Yard

fire department and the alarm of fire was soon spread through the neighboring district and residents of the vicinity were early on the scene to render assistance.

Lowell Department Called

The Navy Yard firemen saw at a glance that they would be unable to cope with the flames which were making rapid headway, and endangering other buildings in the vicinity, and word was telephoned to Lowell and a messenger was sent to the corner of Lakeview avenue and Fred street to sound an alarm from box 165.

A few minutes after the alarm was sounded a portion of the Lowell apparatus arrived. When the local men reached the place the sparks were flying in every direction. Several lines of hose were directed into the burning buildings and buildings in the vicinity were frequently wet down with water in order to keep them from catching fire. The firemen had a tough proposition on hand but they worked hard and finally extinguished the flames, but not before considerable damage had been done.

Narrow Escape

Mrs. Phoebe Ames and her son, Albert Caddell, were asleep in the homestead when the fire broke out, but fortunately were awakened by the light of the fire and the shouts of people who had gathered in the street, and had just time enough to don a few articles of wearing apparel and make their escape from the building.

Firemen Injured

It was after the fire was under control and the firemen were directing water into the interior of the Ames building that the ladder dropped which precipitated three members of the local department to the ground.

An extension ladder had been laid against the side of the Ames house and Lieut. McCaffrey and Hosemen Barnes and Mansur were standing on the rungs of the extension directing a stream into the building when the rope broke, releasing the hooks which held the extension in place. The extension telescoped with a crash and then toppled over, throwing all three men to the ground. The ladder was part of the equipment of the Navy Yard department.

Lieut. McCaffrey and Mansur struck the ground and Barnes was thrown on

THE PARK DEPT.

Is Making a Great War on the Moths

The park department is making war on the moths and the job of ridding the trees of moth nests entails considerable hard work. The moth gang was busy in East Merrimack and Stackpole streets this forenoon and it is safe to say that passersby did not envy them their job. To take up a position in a great high tree and manipulate a pole several yards long on a day like this is not as easy or comfortable a job as others that one might have in mind. The work, too, is attended with considerable danger. A slip of the spur or a drop of the pole might precipitate the manipulator to the street, but fortunately these accidents are not of frequent occurrence. In order to get at the home of the moth it is necessary to cut liberal portions of limbs away and the streets where the moth men are at work receive generous offerings from the trees. The twigs and branches, however, are quickly gathered by men on the ground so that travel is not inconvenienced in any way. The moth work will continue for several weeks.

DESTROYED BY FIRE

STOUGHTON, Feb. 28.—A two-story block at the corner of Wyman and Washington streets, in the center of this town, was destroyed by fire early today causing a loss estimated at $20,000. The building was owned by Walter Swan and occupied by the district court and five stores. It is thought that the blaze originated from an over-heated boiler. At one time it was feared that the flames would communicate with adjoining structures, but with aid from Brockton the local department confined the fire to the structure in which it started.

GREAT TUNNEL

Finished One Year Ahead of Time

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 28.—With world's records broken for low cost and rapidity of construction, the boring of the great five mile Elizabeth tunnel, the most important feature of the new $28,000,000 municipal water project of Los Angeles, was completed yesterday. dre range, 67 miles west of this city and has been drilled through hundreds of feet of solid granite. Work began at both ends of the big bore on October 7, 1907, and went on day and night.

The work was finished a year ahead of time and $411,800 under the estimate.

Tortured for 15 Years by a cure-defying stomach trouble that baffled doctors, and resisted all remedies he tried, John W. Modders, of Moddersville, Mich., seemed doomed. He had to sell his farm and give up work. His neighbors said, "He can't live much longer." "Whatever I ate distressed me," he wrote, "till I tried Electric Bitters, which worked such wonders for me that I can now eat things I could not take for years." MANY PERISHED

Fishing Disaster in the Gulf of Finland

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 28.—According to the official report of the fishing disaster in the Gulf of Finland 500 persons were engaged several miles off the shore of Lauenburg island when on Feb. 23 the ice beneath them broke from the shore and drifted away, carrying the fishermen with their families, horses and outfits far out to sea.

Their cries for help were not heard at the time but late in the evening the short watchmen observed the ice floe, and ice breakers were sent in pursuit. A three days search proved futile. In the meantime the ice broke into several parts, each bearing 40 or 50 persons. In the break up many fell into the water and perished. Two parties, totalling 120 persons, were subsequently driven ashore. No news of the remainder has been received.

HARVARD CREWS HAVE LOST TWO NEW RACING SHELLS

CAMBRIDGE, Feb. 28.—Harvard's crews have suffered a handicap by the loss of two new racing shells recently shipped from London which were ruined in the rough passage. The shells were brought over by the steamer Georgian, which experienced rough weather in crossing. The Harvard bents were lashed to the main deck and the heavy seas which broke over the Georgian ruined the shells. The development of the Crimson crews this year has been retarded by the ice embargo. The Charles river remains frozen and open water is not expected for some time.

FOREST STANLEY, WHO ASSUMES THE LEADING ROLE IN "THE LION AND THE MOUSE."

THE OPERA HOUSE

That popular masterpiece by Charles Klein, "The Lion and the Mouse," that made such a great hit in Boston and New York, was presented at the Opera House last night before a large audience. Although seen here on former occasions, it was at high prices, yet the performance in the present case is on such a high and pretentious scale that it equals in almost every detail some of the best presentations of the play. Each member of the company is well adapted for the role assigned and the result is a performance of a rare order.

Many of those who saw this play given at the Park theatre in Boston attended again last night and enjoyed the performance almost as much as if they had not seen it before. But for the effect of the moving picture shows upon high dramatic performances (this thrilling play of American life would never be presented at popular prices. But it is here this week at considerable cost to the theatre, for there is a high royalty to be paid for the privilege of presenting it.)

The cast last night was as follows:

Jefferson Hyder, his son,
Benedict MacQuarrie
Ex-Judge Stott... Chas. J. Haines
Hon. Pittsford Bagley, Frank M. Christie
Judge Rossmore... J. H. Hunkley

NERVE STRAIN

Doctors tell us that a vast percentage of the breakdowns and troubles today are from overworked, under-nourished nerves. We Americans strain every nerve in our body trying to make a success in life, and do not nourish and feed our nervous system so as to make it equal to the strain; the result is we are broken down old men and women before we are 40 years of age. The nerve tissues must be fed and strengthened, the stomach must be assisted in doing the work of digesting the food, the blood must be enriched and circulation quickened, the body and brain must be invigorated, so that we can withstand the strain and retain health, strength and youth.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, the world's most reliable tonic-stimulant and strength-builder, is an ideal remedial agent for nervous people or anyone under a nervous strain. It quiets the nerves and starts the gastric juices so that the food can be digested. It is a food in itself that gives strength and fills the blood with bright red corpuscles.

Doctors and other scientists all over America know that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey does wonders in aiding the digestion and assimilation of the food and in bringing vigor to the body.

It is sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY by all druggists, grocers, and dealers, or direct, $1.00 a large bottle. Look for the "Old Chemist" on the label and make sure the seal over the cork is unbroken. Medical booklet containing rare common-sense rules for health and testimonials, also doctor's advice, sent free to anyone who writes. The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

YE COLONIAL SERENADERS AT THE MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE ALI, THIS WEEK

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Never was the Merrimack Square theatre visited by such a large crowd as attended the performance last night. The spacious hall was filled to its seating capacity and many of the late comers had to stand.

The main feature of the bill at the theatre this week is Miss Frankie Drew, billed as the "Ballooning Girl." She is a dainty little blonde person with lots of shiner and a pleasing voice. She sings a couple of songs out on the edge of the stage, about aeroplanes and airships, and then all is darkness. Then out of the gloom there emerges from the stage a real life-sized balloon, with a dim red light about where the flame in a Fourth of July balloon ought to be, a light just bright enough to illumine the figure of Miss Drew seated in a miniature basket of the ship. The balloon and its passengers swing over the audience, up and down from the level of the gallery to almost within reach of the hands of those in the orchestra, and from one row of boxes to the other.

The mystery connected with how that balloon is navigated as it is, adds another touch to something already sufficiently interesting to delight every spectator. Miss Drew comes out in her balloon every day at 3:30, 7:15 and 9:30 p. m.

Ye Colonial Serenaders, a mixed quartet, entertain generously with a first class repertoire of songs all well sung. The costuming at the opening of the act is elaborate and there are special electrical effects.

After a couple of songs appropriate to the Colonial period, the four appear in modern garb and give a medley of popular hits. The voices are rich and powerful and the ensemble forms a very good act. They appear at 3:15, 6:30 and 9:20 p. m.

Vander and Belmar are two knock-out acrobats who create lots of fun while performing really difficult stunts. Their feats of strength and skill are marvelous. It is a clean snappy act, with something to watch every minute from curtain to curtain.

Jack Dempsey, who impersonates a tramp comedian has with him a funny monologue, some new jokes and local hits and a pair of remarkably nimble feet.

He gets a laugh the minute he appears on the stage with his monologue and gets more with his humorous sort of dancing. He is clever and extremely funny.

Ray F. Dennis is the soloist, a singer of ability with a good selection of songs and ballads handsomely illustrated.

The list of moving pictures, all of the daylight variety, are unusually varied in character. The feature film is perhaps that depicting the funeral of Archbishop Ryan in Philadelphia, which occurred but a short time ago.

The above bill will be presented continuously all this week from 1 until 10:30 p. m. Lora, the Human Parrot, one of the season's sensations of the largest circuits, is announced as an attraction for next week.

THE GIRL IN THE TAXI

Interest runs high in the forthcoming appearance in this city of that wonderfully successful and highly entertaining Parisian sensation, "The Girl in the Taxi," which is scheduled for one night at the Opera House Thursday, March 9th.

The record achieved by this play is an enviable one. Produced in Chicago it scored an unequalled triumph and settled itself firmly in the hearts of the theatre-going public as the greatest and most diverting piece ever brought out in the western metropolis. For 300 nights it proved a potent magnet to crowd the theatre to the doors and it might be running there yet, but for contracts which demanded its presentation in Boston at a certain date.

"The Girl in the Taxi" went from Chicago to Boston and repeated its phenomenal success. For three solid months it caused the erudite amusement lovers of this city to forget their books and to give themselves up to the overwhelming and altogether delightful charms of the fascinating lady who forms the pivot of the play around which her band of admirers scurries for her favors. The press and public of New York likewise acclaimed "The Girl in the Taxi" as the highest triumph of the New York Journal declaring it to be the funniest play Broadway had ever witnessed. "The Girl in the Taxi" should not be missed. It's like will not soon be seen on the local boards.

THEATRE VOYONS

A laughing show is the bill at the Theatre Voyons today and the comedies "Hubby's Troubles," and "Dobbs the Dauber" are real screamers. The first tells of the unfortunate circumstances which lead hubby's mother-in-law to think he has been flitting and the trouble that ensues. The second is a good old-fashioned chase, with plenty of genuinely clever comedy work injected. The dramatic subject is "The Tivoli Scoundrel," an Edition of the best kind and telling a story that is unequalled for beauty. There is a particularly good scenic subject and the musical program is excellent.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Another good show was presented at the Academy yesterday, and one that contained many novel features. The pictures include the funeral of the late Archbishop Ryan, with its vast number of clergymen in attendance. The Cliff Bailey Trio are sensational acrobats and perform some very daring tricks in their barrel jumping stunts. Adams Brothers have a big roller skating novelty with special scenery. Claude and Marion Cleveland, "that harmonizing duo," sing well and introduce some real live comedy, that will put you in good humor with their droll sayings. They are clever entertainers and will be sure to please.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

"Charley's Aunt," that old but ever popular farce, was presented in a capable manner by the Donald Meek Stock company last night at Hathaway's theatre before a large and appreciative audience. The play itself is too well known to the theatre-goers of this city to go into detail other than to say that three Oxford students find it necessary to furnish a chaperon for two young ladies who are going to be present at the commencement exercises. One of the students had promised that his aunt, who was to have

MAN SERVED 11 YEARS IN JAIL

for Debt

DOVER, N. H., Feb. 28.—Alfred W. Jones, formerly of Milton, who for the past 11 years has been a voluntary prisoner for debt in the Stratford county jail, having repeatedly refused to take the poor debtor's oath, has been adjudged mentally unsound and was yesterday taken to Concord by County Commissioner Edgar J. Ham and committed to the state insane hospital by order of Judge Pike of the superior court.

Regarded as an eccentric character by his townsmen during his long residence in Milton, and feared by many because of his eccentricities, Jones has passed a somewhat weird existence, particularly so during the past decade and a half. Not long before going into voluntary imprisonment, he had been tried and acquitted of the murder of his mother by poisoning. The trial in the superior court here was a long and sensational one.

This case was hardly out of the way when Jones was sued by Walter A. Crippin of Brunswick, Me., a boy who had lived in Jones' home for 10 years as his ward, to recover $2000 damages for injuries alleged to have been received through whippings and other cruel treatment administered by Jones. The case was tried at the September term and resulted in a verdict of $1525 for the plaintiff. Jones refused to settle the judgment against him, signed his property over to his wife and gave himself up to the Stratford county authorities to be imprisoned for debt. He refused to take the poor debtor's oath, although brought over from jail a number of times to do so, when he seemed on the point of yielding. In addition to the amount of the verdict for Crippin there were Jones' attorneys' fees and those of the boy's attorneys, which Jones also refused to pay.

Jones for years had professed to be a very religious man and claimed he was being persecuted. He declared the county would have to take care of him, and it has for more than 11 years. Of late Jones has been troubled with hallucinations and the county commissioners decided to apply for an inquisition to have him examined as to his sanity.

Freddie Welch

Lost His Title as Champion

LONDON, Feb. 28.—Matt Wells won a 20-round fight last night from Freddie Welch for the lightweight championship of Great Britain and the Lonsdale belt. The bout was fought at the National sporting club, and the big crowd that gathered witnessed 20 rounds of fast work.

Although the men appeared pretty evenly matched and there was little to choose between them, the fight was awarded to Wells on points.

EVERY WOMAN TRY THIS.

Every woman at some time or other needs a reliable, antiseptic, sanative wash and here is a physician's formula for making the very best one at home: Obtain at the drug store 2 ounces antiseptic vilane powder, 1 ounce tannic acid, and 1 ounce sulphate of zinc. Mix together and use a teaspoonful to a quart of warm water, as a douche or injection. This is reliably antiseptic, and soon checks, unnatural discharges, such as leucorrhoea, or whites; overcomes inflammation, heals, tones and purifies the parts, thus promoting regularity, health and happiness.

RESPITE FOR JORDAN

Writ of Error Acts as Reprieve of Death Sentence

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—After being admitted to practice before the U. S. supreme court yesterday, Atty. Gen. James M. Swift of Massachusetts inquired into the status of two important cases pending before the court on appeal from the Massachusetts supreme court. One is the case of Chester S. Jordan, sentenced to death for murder, and the other is the Commonwealth against the Provident Institution.

to something more than $100,000. John C. Gray of Boston is attorney for the savings bank. A hearing on the appeal in this case probably will be held in April.

As the result of a conference yesterday between Atty. Gen. Swift and Commissioner Proctor of the interstate commerce commission it was decided to hold hearings in Boston on the Massachusetts milk rate cases, the latter part of April. After the hearings attorneys for the commonwealth and the railroad will present their arguments before the commission in Washington.

The milk cases, briefs on which were submitted to the commission by both sides in December, were held up because of the change in attorneys general in Massachusetts. Mr. Swift will have full charge of the cases for Massachusetts hereafter.

Chicago, Ill.—"I suffered from a female weakness and stomach trouble, and I went to the store to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but the clerk did not want to let me have it—he said it was no good and wanted me to try something else, but knowing all about it I insisted and finally got it, and I am so glad I did, for it has cured me."

"I know of so many cases where women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I can say to every suffering woman if that medicine does not help her, there is nothing that will."—Mrs. JANET ZEL, 2933 Arch St., Chicago, Ill.

This is the age of substitution, and women who want a cure should insist upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound just as this woman did, and not accept something else on which the druggist can make a little more profit.

Women who are passing through this critical period or who are suffering from any of those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of the fact that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

All the savings banks of the state joined forces in contesting the constitutionality of an act of the legislature which was upheld by the Massachusetts supreme court. If the U. OFFERS OF BETS GUESTS ESCAPED

On Standing of League Hotel Was Damaged by Teams Fire

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—There were received here yesterday by express from Kentucky, circulars of the syndicate which offers to accept bets on the outcome of the approaching pennant contests in the National and American baseball leagues and the American association, and also on club series.

The circular caused some uneasiness among the local baseball men who were quick to denounce the scheme. It is understood that immediate steps will be taken by the officials of the National and American leagues to check, if possible, what they consider a menace to the national game. Gambling has long been tabooed in professional baseball and the feeling seems general that if it is now brought into the game it will be to its detriment.

The syndicate announces in its circular that it is willing to accept bets of $5 or over, which shall be sent by express, telegraph or telephone. According to the "book" it has planned, $5 to $10 is offered that New York does not finish first in the National league race.

In the American league Philadelphia is made favorite, with $5 to $10, and 1 to 5 that they do not finish first, second or third.

The circular says it is the company's object to "give the baseball enthusiasts the chance to support their judgment," and in the straight race for the pennant an opportunity to back their preferences in the three leagues for first, second, third or fourth places.

The company also offers to lay odds against the standing of clubs at the end of the first half of the season, to include the games played July 8. In fact, every sort of combination for wagering is held out for "fans."

GREAT MEETING OF SACRED HEART PAROCHIAL SCHOOL ALUMNI

A very enthusiastic meeting of the recently organized alumni of the Sacred Heart parochial school was held at the parochial school hall Sunday afternoon. Fully two hundred of the members were present to arrange for the entertainment to be given on the eve of St. Patrick's day. An instructive address was given by Rev. James T. McDermott, O. M. I., an alumnus of the school and also president of the association. He spoke of the purpose of the organization of the alumni of a school and outlined the field of usefulness which opens itself to the members. He then enlarged on plans which are already underway for the formation of a choral society, a dramatic club and a debating club. He also mentioned the recently formed Diocesan Choral society, to which it is hoped the local organization may soon be in a position to send delegates.

A rehearsal of the program for March 16th was then held and enthusiasm ran high as strains of the beautiful Irish melodies carried in solo, unison and part singing, rose in the hall. These are part of a musical sketch, "Uncle Patrick's Birthday," written for the occasion by a young lady of the parish.

The presentation of this sketch marks the first appearance of the alumni as an organization, and no pains are being spared to make the evening a success.

BERLIN, N. H., Feb. 28.—Aroused from their sleep by shouts of fire, the 30 guests of the Central house clamored out of the windows and made their escapes as best they could last night leaving most of their clothing and valuables behind. Several were carried down ladders by the firemen and all escaped without serious injury.

The fire started just after 10 o'clock and although the firemen were early on the scene the high wind and low temperature hampered them considerably and it was two hours before the blaze was under control. The loss is estimated at upwards of $10,000. The cause of the fire is unknown.

The building, a wooden structure, three stories in height, was owned by Peter McCrystle, while the proprietor of the hotel was A. A. Traflet.

GIRL A HEROINE

She Rescued Friends From Drowning

CHICOPEE, Feb. 28.—A brave barefooted girl, 13-year-old Josephine Pirozski, rushed into the icy waters of the Chicopee river late yesterday and rescued from drowning two little girl friends, while her collie dog "Beauty" was less successful in attempting to save the life of a third child, Mary Zybara, aged 19 years, who was drowned.

The Pirozski girl from the window of her home saw the three girls go down home from the ice and although barefooted, Josephine rushed out and rescued two of the girls.

The collie which already has a record of saving a man from drowning, dove into the water after Mary Zybara and seized her by the hair, he started ashore with her but the child became frantic and battled with the dog, with the result that the animal released his hold.

CONDUCTOR SHOT

He is Not Expected to Live

ORANSTON, R. I., Feb. 28.—Two armed men late last night held up, robbed and shot Conductor Daniel J. Coyne, while his car was stopped at the end of Union avenue line of the Rhode Island Street Railway company. Coyne is not expected to live.

The car was empty when the two men boarded it. Sticking a revolver in Coyne's face they demanded his money. When Coyne made a movement to resist, one of the men shot him in the abdomen. The other grabbed his money and both made their escape before the dazed man could act.

A police officer who heard the shot and saw one of the men running away gave chase and fired, but did not succeed in stopping him. Mayor Edward Sullivan organized a volunteer posse and with the police is making a search for the men.

ANNUAL BANQUET OF BOARD OF TRADE TO BE HELD MARCH 18

The board of trade's annual banquet will be held March 18 at Associate hall. The plans are more or less completed and it is expected that over 500 people will take part in the repast.

Louis K. Bourke, street commissioner for Boston and a man of national reputation, will be the speaker, and Rev. Dr. Smith Baker of Lowell has also agreed to speak. Rev. Dr. J. Keleher will offer the prayer. An invitation has been extended to Vice-President E. Byrnes of the N. Y. N. H. & H. railroad to address the meeting and it is hoped that he will accept.

"NATOMA," A SUCCESSFUL GRAND OPERA, WRITTEN BY AMERICANS

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—The production of "Natoma," a grand opera in English, is probably the most notable event of the year in operatic and musical circles. The opera, written by Americans, produced in English and given its initial presentation in an American city, marks a new era in the operatic world, where European composers and European languages have long reigned predominant. The music was composed by Victor Herbert; the libretto was written by Joseph D. Rading. The opera has been produced successfully at the Philadelphia Opera House and was then transferred to New York to the Metropolitan Opera House. In the cast were many notable stars. In the accompanying illustration Mary Garden is shown in the titular part of Natoma, an Indian maiden, and Lillian Grenville as Barbara, a Spaniard. Many public officials and foreign diplomats, etc., attended the opening New York performance.

The new opera is American in theme, in scene and treatment. The story is sung in three acts. The scene lies in Santa Cruz and in Santa Barbara, Cal., with its ancient mission and its haciendas. The time is 1820.

COMPANY M WON

Defeated Co. G of the Sixth

Teams made up of Company G of the Sixth and M of the Ninth regiment were the contestants in the third of the series of contests in the military league held last night at the state armory in Westford street.

The basketball game was won by G, but M carried off the honors in the shoot and at bowling.

The basketball game proved to be a good one, although rather one-sided. Company G winning by a score of 31 to 8. Company M put up a good game but lack of team work was responsible for its defeat.

The line-up and summary:

Company G: McGookin 11, Jodoin 11, Paul 10, Keeler 10, St. Peter 10. Company M: Kelly 11, Mills 11, Maxwell 11, Gleason 11, Donovan 11. Score—Co. G 34, Co. M 8. Basket: McGookin 5, Jodoin 5, Paul 4, St. Peter 3, Gleason 1, Mills 1, Kelly 1, Points: fowls, G 3, M 2. Referee, Roddy. Score: Trotter, Timers, Hurd and Corcoran. Time, 20m halves.

Company M won the shoot by just one point, the score being: M 21, G 20. The figures were all low, but this was due to the fact that the regulation target, which is much smaller than the one used in other contests, was in commission for the first time. Doyle of G was high man, with 67. The scores were:

Company M—Alcott 17, Roerke 45, Gannon 58, Bear 46, Shanley 44. Total, 211.

Company G—Doyle 67, Flanders 41, Hatch 36, Barnes 36, Rifano 30. Total, 210.

Revolver shooting in individual competition was held for the first time since the inauguration of the tournament. There were two contestants, R. H. Robinson and E. J. Burns, both of Company G, who were tied for first place, each having 79 points to his credit.

The bowling match resulted in a victory for Company M by a score of 1256 to 1178. The score:

Company M: Sullivan 77, St. Ives 79, Kittredge 73, J. Roerke 79, Reynolds 90. Total, 408.

FRANK GOTCH

THREW TWO MEN WITHIN TWENTY MINUTE LIMIT

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Frank Gotch, the world's champion heavyweight wrestler, undertook to throw three men, allowing them 20 mins. each last night. He downed Fritz Mohr, a Swiss, in seven minutes, 56 seconds and put Yankee Rogers of Buffalo down in 16 minutes, 28 seconds, but Wm. Demetral, a Greek, was so strong and agile that the 20 minutes passed without his being thrown.

EX-SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE

RETIRES TO PRIVATE LIFE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—General Joseph Warren Keifer, member of congress from Ohio and an ex-speaker of the house of representatives, becomes a private citizen through the closing of the present congress and will probably never again occupy a public position owing to his advanced age. He was speaker of the Forty-seventh congress and won a wide reputation for statesmanship. He commanded the One Hundred and Tenth Ohio Volunteer infantry during the Civil war, and was present at the surrender of Lee at Appomattox and at the surrender of General Johnson at Greensboro, N. C. He served eight years in congress during the seventies and eighties and returned to the lower house after twenty years of absence.

TWO FAMOUS CUE WIELDERS TO PLAY FOR WORLD'S POOL TITLE

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Widespread interest is being taken in the coming match for the world's pool championship between Alfred De Oro, the title holder, and Tommy Hueston, to be played in this city March 6, 7 and 8. Each night's play will consist of 200 balls. De Oro announced recently that this would be his last public appearance in a contest for the pool title.

He intends to devote his entire attention to the three cushion billiard game, of which he is the title holder. As the famous Cuban is more than anxious to retire as the world's greatest pool player, he has been practicing hard for his games with Hueston and is in excellent shape. Hueston is also in fine shape for the match and says he is sure of defeating De Oro.

Taft's Once Intimate Friend Makes Attack on the President

He Says Chief Executive Tried to Intimidate Members of Congress—No One Championed Cause of the President

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—President Taft by inference was charged last night with using his appointive power to intimidate members of congress. This inference was made in a speech in the senate by Senator Jonathan Bourne of Oregon, president of the new progressive league, and until recent trouble over Oregon appointment, the intimate friend and going companion of the chief executive. The surprising thing was that although all of the senator's audience construed his remarks as an attack upon the president, not a word was uttered in reply. The Beverly letter in which Secretary Norton said that the president had withheld federal patronage from certain senators and congressmen but that he would discontinue the practice was brought into prominence. On previous occasions insurgent senators had threatened to read this letter into the senate but until last night no public reference had been made to it. Mr. Bourne opened his speech by a discussion of the Oregon law. He said that when this law was enacted by all the states it will destroy the power of the federal machine to re-nominate a president or determine his successor. The "steam roller" he says, will be relegated to the political scrap heap and its operators to the shadow of things forgotten while fourth class postmasters will cease to be a political asset for anybody or any party. Senator Bourne said that the use of

The last payment has been made on Massachusetts Mills new stock and now the full capital of $3,000,000 has been paid in and yet the capital is much below the cost of replacement of this big property. At the annual meeting on February 13, the treasurer reported debts of $2,395,055 against assets of $1,149,435 or about $50 a share on the entire $3,000,000 capital.

The nineteenth annual meeting of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers will be held at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston, Mass., April 12 and 13, 1911. These dates have been selected because they immediately follow the Congress of Technology, which will be held on the fiftieth anniversary of the charter of that institution, and it is expected that many of those present will remain to attend the meeting.

President MacLaurin of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology will speak at the opening session and during the meeting papers are expected on the following subjects: "Arbitration on Cancellation of Orders," "By-Products in Cotton Manufacturing," "Doffing Machines and Their Relation to Child Labor," "Electric Power Transmission to Cotton Mills," "The Cotton Plant and the Relation of the Plant to the Cotton Mill," "Gas Producers and Gas Engines for Cotton Mills," "Illumination," "Law of Moisture in Cotton and Wool," "Methods of Cost Finding in Cotton Mills," "Moisture in Cotton," "Renascence of the Waterfall," "Rewinding Textile Yarn," "Sandwich Island Cotton," "Textile Education From a Manufacturing Standpoint," "Weaving Shed Roof Construction."

There will also be reports on standard specifications and other subjects by special committees.

The school board meeting scheduled for tonight was held last night. The board elected Miss Jessie M. Hagar to succeed Miss Josephine C. Coburn as assistant supervisor of music. The abolition of High school fraternities was voted; the petition asking that the state board of education investigate without expense to the city, conditions in Lowell with relation to the need of an industrial school was endorsed, and the pay of three school janitors was increased.

On recommendation of the committee on school houses and hygiene, John J. O'Connor and George Daly were elected permanent janitors, in order to comply with the state law in relation to steam boilers.

It was voted to hold the annual exhibit of work of the evening drawing school at the close of the term. The exhibition will be held at the Whistler house, the directors of the Lowell Art association giving the use of the house for one week for that purpose, without cost to the city.

The salary of M. J. Lynch, head janitor of the High school, was fixed at $3 a day and that of Michael Donovan of the Lincoln school and F. J. Burch of the Washington school at $2.50 a day.

The committee on rules recommended as follows: "To amend section 25 of chapter 37 of the rules, by striking out the entire section and inserting the following:—

Section 25.—Organizations known as fraternities and societies are hereby forbidden in the High school, and the head master is instructed to see that no organization of the above nature shall use the name of the Lowell High school as the reason for its existence.

The High school regiment, girls' battalion and athletic association are the only organizations to be recognized, and shall not be permitted to have socials, dances, parties, balls, musicales, theatricals or other social events without the consent of the head master.

The head master is instructed to restrict the number or to prohibit all social functions or events that in his judgment interfere with the regular school work and are prejudicial to the best interests of the pupils and the school.

The school board endorsed the petition, signed by the president of the Middlesex Women's club and chairman of the sociology department of that club, and by the president and secretary of the board of trade, asking that the state board of education investigate, without cost to the city, law conditions in Lowell relative to the needs of industrial education. Such investigations have been made by the state in Somerville, New Bedford, Worcester and other cities.

It having been found that the Colburn primary school was not assigned, through an oversight, to any sub-committee, the president assigned it to Mr. Farrington.

A petition for permission to have lectures given by Col. C. E. French, in the various grammar schools, where the principals are willing to make bookings, was referred to the board of supervisors.

A tribute paid the character and efficiency of Miss Josephine Coburn, former assistant supervisor of music, by Mr. Goward was endorsed by a rising vote.

It was voted that the grammar masters be asked to give to the board an opinion of the standing of penmanship in the schools, with such suggestions as they may have for the improvement of the same.

The board proceeded to the election of an assistant supervisor of music. There was a long list of candidates and on the second ballot, Miss Jessie M. Hagar received five of the nine votes and was elected.

Big time, A. O. H. hall, tonight.

MAJOR BEATTIE

Wants Prominent Display of British Flag

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 28.—An echo of annexation talk was heard in the Canadian house last night when a resolution was offered by Major Beattie, conservative member for London, Ont., declaring that "regulations should be issued providing that wherever a foreign flag is displayed, except by the representative of a foreign government, a British flag shall be displayed in a more prominent position."

Major Beattie said too many American flags were flown in Canada by summer residents from across the line and by tourists in automobiles who whirled through the country with their automobiles decorated with the stars and stripes, but without a British flag being anywhere displayed. This, he said, irritated many Canadians.

Dr. Pugsley, minister of public works, said that the British ensign should be more freely displayed in the Dominion, and he agreed that the frequent display of foreign flags was not agreeable to the people.

Mr. Fielding, finance minister, said that for Canada there was only one flag and that was the British emblem.

Dr. Edwards of Frontenac declared that many American summer residents in central Ontario insisted upon displaying the stars and stripes at their camps and declined to fly the British emblem. This attitude he characterized as rightly distasteful to Canadians who had no objection to the American flag, but resented any implied discourtesy to the flag of this country.

Dr. Clark, liberal member from Alberta, said the many Americans coming into western Canada make good citizens. "They assimilate easily but they won't be so willing to become British subjects if the Union Jack is waved in their faces too much," he said.

Mr. Fielding suggested that the resolution be withdrawn for a time to give the government opportunity to investigate.

Captain Wallace of York, Ont., and several other conservative members objected to the resolution being withdrawn.

E. M. MacDonald, liberal, affirmed his belief that the British flag alone should be recognized in Canada and that the government should be given time to look into the question before a change was made in the law. He moved adjournment of the debate.

This motion was supported by the liberals and opposed by the conservatives. It carried on a strict party division by a majority of 40.

EXTRA SESSION

IS FAVORED BY THE NEW YORK SENATE

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 28.—By a party vote of 26 to 14, the senate last night adopted Assemblyman Cuyler's resolution urging President Taft to call an extra session of congress to revise the tariff downward. Minority Leader Brackett assailed the majority for their "monumental exhibition of incompetence."

CONGRESSIONAL EULOGIES ON DECEASED MEMBERS

In no particular feature is the oratory of congress more distinguished than in the style, force and eloquence of the eulogies upon departed members of either house. In the senate especially, the memorial addresses are of a very high order. Always carefully prepared, they usually represent the very highest efforts of the speakers and err, if at all, only in the excess of praise lavished upon the departed who have usually been close friends of the speakers. Formerly the senators drew freely upon the poets for glowing quotations to enliven a climax or bring a period to a graceful close; but the allusions suitable for such orations have been so hackneyed that they are now avoided by the eminent orators and are used only by the second or third rate, chiefly by members of the lower branch.

Senator Lodge on Saturday delivered a eulogy upon the late Senator Daniels, of Virginia, that for real power of eloquence has rarely been excelled. He did not resort to the hackneyed poetical quotations, but his address, polished as it was and thrilling in historic and patriotic fire, suffered not on that account. Let one paragraph, and that not the most eloquent, show the character of Senator Lodge's speech:—

"Except in the golden age of Athens, I do not think that any community of equal size, only a few thousands in reality, has produced in an equally brief time as much ability as was produced by the Virginian planters at the period of the American revolution. Washington and Marshall, Jefferson and Madison, Patrick Henry, the Lees and the Randolphs, Masons and Wythes—what a list it is of soldiers and statesmen, of orators and lawyers."

"The responsibility of representing such a past and such a tradition is as great as the honor. Senator Daniel never forgot either the honor or the responsibility. Can more be said in his praise than that he worthily guarded the one and sustained the other?"

But within the past week there were various other eulogies delivered upon departed members of the senate and house, including Senator Clay of Georgia, Representatives Gilmore of Louisiana and Brownlow of Tennessee. Some of the addresses in praise of these men would apply equally to the memory of some of the greatest men that ever lived. On no other subject are the members so gushy as upon the passing of a fellow member to—

"The undiscovered country from whose bourn No traveler returns."

Senator Clay, from all we can learn, was a man of reasonable ability and was 58 years old when he died. On February 19th the business of the house was suspended in order to allow the delivery of eulogies by several speakers. Some of the speeches were printed in the following issue of the Record while some were held over to appear later; but what was remarkable about them was the fulsome praise of deceased and the number of poetical quotations. There is one quotation sure to be used on such occasions, and in this particular case it was used twice by two different speakers. Of course a man who prepares a very fine eulogy and winds up a great period with a quotation cannot be expected to change it just because somebody else used it a few minutes before. That would be presuming too much upon the ability of most congressmen. Hence the audience was regaled to the familiar quotation from Bryant's Thanatopsis which runneth thus:

"So live that when thy summons comes to join
The innumerable caravan that moves
To that mysterious realm where each shall take
His chamber in the silent halls of death,
Thou go not like the quarry slave at night,
Scourged to his dungeon, but, sustained and soothed
By an unfaltering trust approach thy grave
Like one that wraps the drapery of his couch
About him and lies down to pleasant dreams."

Rep. Burnett wound up the debate with this peroration:—

"But he is gone, and Georgia will miss his great, honest mind and heart, and with Georgia, the nation mourns. His family and friends mourn him, not as one who died without hope of the future, but they know that he died as he had lived, an honest man and a Christian gentleman, and that—

Beyond the sunset's radiant glow,
There is a better land we know,
And that in that better land the soul of their loved one—
Rests under the shade of the trees."

In eulogy of Mr. Brownlow there was also a variety of poetical allusions, shorter than those applied to Senator Clay, probably because the fitness of things did not demand such ponderosity for a plain representative. Here is one from Shakespeare, a good one, it is true, but one so often used that it is hackneyed:—

"His life was gentle and the elements
So mixed in him that Nature might stand up
And say to all the world, 'This was a man.'"

Brownlow was praised for his admiration of Andrew Jackson and his veneration for Jackson's grave. This brought in the following lines from Halleck:—

"Such graves as his are pilgrims' shrines,
Shrine to no code or creed confined,
The Delphian vales, the Palestines,
The Meccas of the mind."

The logic of this address was, that many of the splendid qualities of manhood attributed to Jackson were possessed in a marked degree by Brownlow. After concluding the parallel between Brownlow and Jackson the speaker closed with part of the beautiful stanza from Bryant already quoted above.

Representative Hawley of Oregon, speaking in praise of the late Congressman Tirrell of Massachusetts, delivered a very pretentious oration in which he had two sublime passages from Shakespeare, one from Ruskin's "Ethics of the Dust," and this notable reference to character:—

"Worthy human character is everywhere the greatest purely human thing in the world. And when—

The cloud-capp'd towers, the gorgeous palaces,
The solemn temples, the great globe itself,
Yea, all which it inherit, shall dissolve;
And like this insubstantial pageant faded,
Leave not a rack behind—

worthy men and women shall shine in fadeless immortality."

Mr. Hawley closed his oration with these lines from Tennyson's "In

Memorial:—

"There is a God who lives and loves,
One God, one law, one element;
And one far-off divine event,
To which the whole creation moves."

A eulogy upon Rep. Gilmore brought out these lines from Matthew Arnold:—

"His cabin'd ample spirit
Fluttered and faltered of breath,
Tonight he doth inherit
The vasty hall of death."

The same speaker closed by quoting the following from Longfellow:—

"There is no death! What seems so is transition;
This life of mortal breath
Is but a suburb of the life elysian,
Whose portal we call Death."

Judging from the number of poetical quotations injected into these speeches we are not surprised to find that the librarian of congress is obliged to have a select book of quotations ready at all times for each member of the house and senate. We had expected, however, to find some of the speakers use one quotation that has been drawn upon on such occasions even to a greater extent than that from Bryant. It is Halleck's well known lines:—

"Green be the turf above thee,
Friend of my better days;
None knew thee but to love thee,
Nor named thee but to praise."

SEEN AND HEARD

"I believe it was a good thing for me that they stole the dog, but I took it to heart at the time. I think that dog could lick anything of his weight or five pounds heavier that ever came over the pike and he was a tramp at that." This was the windup of a story told by a fellow who owned a fighting dog some years ago. The erstwhile "dog fighter" dropped in at the city hall yesterday and the conversation turned to dogs. He told of one that he picked up in the street and that afterwards became a champion.

"The dog came to me in the street," he said, "and seemed as if he would like to know me. He didn't look very good to me but there was something in his eye that won me. 'Do you want to go home with me?' I asked, and he shook his apology for a tail. That settled it. I just invited him to come along and he followed me home. Up to that time I had never seen a real dog fight and I didn't believe that the sport was one to be encouraged, but I soon discovered that the dog in question would rather fight than eat. He licked everything in sight, but he didn't yet to meet a professional, a champion made up my mind that I wouldn't go looking for trouble but that I would give him a try-out at the first opportunity. I didn't have long to wait. One day a fellow came to me and said he had a friend from Boston who had a dog that he wanted to try out and he wanted me to accommodate his friend. I said I would and to make a long story short, we had at it. His was a blue blood article and the tramp dog put him to sleep.

"The news soon spread that I had a champion and one day I received a challenge from a fellow in Lawrence. I accepted it and seeing that there was a little money bet I was on the anxious seat. One day I met an old fellow in the street and he struck me for a dime. I gave him the dime and then he said something about the dog. I told him about the coming battle and this is what he said: 'If you'll do as I tell you there'll be nothing to the scrap. Get all the old cigar butts you can and boil them; boil them good and plenty and for three days before the fight bathe the dog with the liquid.' The boiling of the cigar butts was not very pleasing to the household and I feared for a time that I would be turned out of the house and home. I followed directions, however, and the fight was pulled off in a field beyond Tyng's Island. The dog from Lawrence was a husky looking brute and I looked bad for the tramp, but after the fight people knew that the fellow who gave me the tip was all to the good. The Lawrence dog went at the tramp like a roaring lion but he sickened at the first grab. It was a blood-less fight and I won the money. A little later my dog was stolen. I was pretty sore at the time and I went to the police to see what they could do to assist me. I did not succeed in getting any trace of the dog and I believe it was a good thing for me that the dog was stolen.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Jacob A. Rills has written a letter to C. H. Riggs of The Bristol (Conn.) Press, denouncing the critics of ex-President Roosevelt, and saying among other things:—

"I was abroad during the campaign and know nothing of his 'intemperate language,' but I read the newspapers and the lying they did was enough to provoke an honest man to worse things than language, however strong. The lies were paid for of course. 'By the moneyed interests, by Wall street. These started the 'drunken' lie, too, as I happen to know, for old General Howard not long before his death wrote to me that two Wall street acquaintances had assured him that the president (Roosevelt) was 'drunk every night in the White House.' If you can put me on the track of any one circulating these stories you will be rendering a service to your day. The devils.

"Roosevelt drinks just about as much as Lyman Abbott and Lord has spared him the grief the vile slanderers hunt in his family circle. I would advise you to meet any one of them that you come across with the flat declaration that he is a damnable liar, but I would leave him to his Maker, who will know how to deal with him more effectively than any earthly judge. It is the existence of such slimy, crawling things on earth that brings one back to the belief in the eternal brimstone pot as the only fit place for them."

Dr. Charles F. Aked, pastor of the wealthy Fifth Avenue Baptist church in New York, is reported to have expressed his disapproval of large salaries, and his desire for a less luxurious field than the one which he serves at a salary of $12,000 a year. He feels that he is not accomplishing anything for the good of mankind.

Another young woman to be selected as the private secretary to a national representative is Miss Elizabeth C. Harris, daughter of Representative-elect Robert O. Harris of Bridgewater. She is partly because there are no boys in Judge Harris's family that his attractive 24 year old daughter has been given the position by her father. She is tall and sweet, graceful, and fond of athletics. She has blond hair, large eyes, a well shaped mouth, and the most tactful and charming way of greeting a visitor.

Miss Harris is a graduate of the Bridgewater High school. In speaking of her new task she says:—

"I am studying hard to learn about the duties that go along with a representative's secretary's position. Although my father is to be my employer, that does not free me from any of the duties of my position."

"I have always tried to be a good child to my father, and I think that I have been more or less successful, or else he would not have offered to take me to Washington with him as his helper. It is, indeed, a good index to a father's belief in a daughter when he is willing to trust her with his political and business secrets."

"Apart from the question of relations, and politics could be more pleasantly anticipated by me than being the secretary to one of our statesmen in Washington. Presumably every woman who likes to be independent would be pleased with the idea. I am not one of those who believe that a woman's interests are limited to social and household affairs."

"Undoubtedly if there had been sons in the family I should not be called on to take a man's place, but I can scarcely make a difference whether my father is served by his own son or his daughter as private secretary, provided the work is faithfully done and his affairs are looked out for in a businesslike way."

Just now I am studying stenography and typewriting in Boston, and learning the routine duties of a professional private secretary."

The fifth annual social of the Princeton club, an organization of prominent young men of Centralville, was held last night in Associate hall. The popularity of the members of the organization was evidenced by the large attendance. It is needless to state that the affair was a success for the members of the club noted for the excellence of their social functions, neither pains nor money being taken into consideration.

Boyd, 124 Massachusetts avenue, last evening, her daughter, Miss Margaret Boyd, was united in marriage to Lester G. Hornby, of Pawtucket, R. I. Rev. Glen Tiley Morse performed the ceremony.

The couple were married beneath a brilliant bower of southern smilax, with an abundance of white hydrangeas and lavender sweet peas. Copious quantities of yellow jonquills and Richmond roses were pleasing features of the house decorations.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, William Patton Boyd, Harvard 1912. She wore a Paris gown of white satin, embroidered with silver and crested with sea pearls and brilliants, with festoons of silver roses. It was with court train, embroidered in similar design. She wore a collar of pearls, the gift of the groom, and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids.

Attending her as maid of honor was Miss Lucy Bainbridge Smith, of Boston, and carried a bouquet of roses and white hyacinths. Miss Carrie Freeman of Newton, Miss Alice MacLeod and Miss Elizabeth Alexander of this city, Miss Ida McGinnis of Washington, Miss Marguerite Stephenson of Winchester, and Miss Marjorie Young of Ashmont, were bridesmaids. They were gowned in white and carried lavender sweet peas.

Ferry L. Albee of Providence, was best man. The ushers were Blanchard B. Pratt, Dr. Harry Plunkett, Henry H. Wilder and Gordon Bunker, all members of the Vesper club of Lowell. In the receiving line with Mr. and Mrs. Hornby after the ceremony were Mrs. William P. Boyd, mother of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Hornby, parents of the groom.

The bride is musically gifted and is an accomplished artist. The groom is a young artist of distinction and has spent much time abroad in study. A honeymoon will take in Paris and the continent, with a further trip to Egypt and Japan.—Cambridge Chronicle of Feb. 23.

A pretty wedding was celebrated yesterday afternoon at the Tewksbury novitiate when Rev. Fr. Phelan, O. M.

L. united in marriage Mr. Findlay Nicholson and Miss Margaret Theresa Kelley, both of the state hospital. GIRL IS RELEASED

She Was Freed From Madhouse at Matteawan

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—"To be free, to eat with people who are not crazy, to hear children laugh, to have little Francis and Morris climb in my lap and kiss me, to be where I can't hear madmen shriek—that is happiness, and I have it," cried 17-year-old Dora Schram, as she sat yesterday in her uncle's home at 1846 Pacific street, Brooklyn. She was freed Saturday from the Matteawan state hospital for the insane.

A strange series of incidents combined to make this young girl an institutional inmate most of her 17 years. Taken from her stepfather's home at 4 years, she was by turns in the Hebrew orphan asylum, the Hebrew Sheltering Guardian society home, the City home of Poughkeepsie, the training school for girls at Hudson, and finally the hospital for the insane at Matteawan. Through the efforts of her uncle, Jacob Berowitz, and Norman A. Lees of Brooklyn her sanity was proved and Justice Morschauser freed her.

"My uncle went up to Hudson Saturday and brought me home," she said yesterday. "All the way down on the train I kept pinching myself to be sure the good luck was real."

"At Matteawan the attendants laughed at me and said I should never be free again, because I was insane. You needn't think that you are going home, said one doctor. 'You are insane. Besides, we want you for the theatrical performance here. No one can shake a tambourine like you. The judge will send you back.'"

"When they are going to have an entertainment they always ask the same ones to perform. There are about 15 among the women. They don't dare ask the crazy ones. And they actually wanted me to stay to help in the entertainment. But I wanted to get away, I had seen so many horrible things there."

"There was the suicide of Baroness Louise de Massey, who was sent up there for killing an old man in New York. She was silent and sorrowful about the wards and the attendants didn't like her. One day I entered ward two and saw the woman attendants sitting in the corner reading a book. Against the wall something was hanging. At first I thought it was a bundle of clothing, but then I saw it was a woman hanging. She'd made a rope of a sheet or her apron or something and had hanged herself while the attendant was sitting in the room."

"I ran up to the attendant and cried, 'There's one of your patients for you!' She jumped up and cried, 'O my God!' and got a knife and cut her down. She fell to the floor like a bag and the fall broke her neck the doctors said after-

ARREST LAWYER

On Charge of Using the Mails in Fraud

BOSTON, Feb. 28.—Charged with using the mails in a scheme to defraud, Howell T. Wood, a lawyer, with an office in the Carney building on Tremont street, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Deputy U. S. Marshal Morse. He was later arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Hayne in the federal building and was held in $5000 bail until this morning. He furnished bonds and was released.

The complaint is brought by P. O. Inspector Dunn, who has been at work on the matter since last December. Wood is charged as the representative of the Equitable corporation and finance company, with offices in the Carney building, sent out circulars to corporations in the south and west offering to float issues of bonds in the east.

The complaint alleges that Wood entered into an agreement with the Corrier mills company of Lauder, N. C., to float an issue of $25,000 worth of its bonds in denominations of $500, for which Woods was to receive 5 per cent. commission and the expenses of executing the deed of trust to secure the issue and other costs of issuing. The bonds were of the par value of $100 and were to be sold at the rate of $90.

The charge is made in the complaint that there is no Equitable corporation and finance company, and that therefore Wood could not carry out his promises to the Corrier company. Hence the bringing of the charge of unlawfully using the mails.

$500,000 SUIT
Has Been Referred to an Auditor

BOSTON, Feb. 28.—The suit for $500,000 brought by Frederic L. Small against Arthur H. Soden, the millionaire business man and former owner of the Boston National league baseball team, will be heard in private before an auditor.

This arrangement was decided upon by Judge Brown yesterday in the Suffolk superior court, where the action which is brought by Mr. Small for the alleged alienation of his wife's affection by Mr. Soden, and the subsequent desertion by Mrs. Small, came up for trial on schedule.

Both sides were prepared to go on with the case, George Libby and Thomas J. Boynton representing Mr. Small and Henry L. Hurst representing Mr. Soden. Mr. Hurst asked that the case be continued further because of a report and discussion of the case, which counsel for Mr. Soden believed would be prejudicial to his case.

After several conferences between the attorneys and the court, during which some of the prospective testimony was outlined, Judge Brown suggested that the case be sent to an auditor, although counsel for Mr. Small wished to go to trial before a jury. Among the names suggested to Judge Brown for auditor was that of Judge Robert O. Harris, who has just resigned from the superior court to go to congress and also practice law. If Judge Harris were selected by Judge Brown he would enter upon this assignment soon after relinquishing his place on the bench.

THE CREW SAFE

Schooner Sylvia Nunan Was Lost

GLOUCESTER, Feb. 28.—The schooner Sylvia Nunan, of Kennebunk, Me., was run down and sunk by the schooner Grayling two miles off "Thatchers" Island shortly before midnight last night. All of the crew of the Nunan reached the deck of the Grayling in safety and were landed here today. The Nunan in command of Captain Holbrook was bound for Boston from an eastern port and the Grayling was coming to Gloucester from Portland with a cargo of codfish.

Each skipper blamed the other for the collision. It is believed the vessels were holding their courses too long and that the collision resulted because neither would give way. The Grayling struck the Nunan on the starboard side, smashing a great hole in the hull. Two of the Nunan's crew were on watch at the time and six others were asleep in the forecabin. One of the men, the precast manager, managed to reach the deck by the companionway and clambered on board the Grayling. The sixth man, John Goodrich, did not have time to climb up the stairs. He took the only chance offered him and plunged through the hole that had been smashed in the side of the Nunan. He was able to secure a hold on the Grayling's cable and pulled himself to the schooner's deck. The Nunan sank within two minutes after the crash. The schooner Sylvia M. Nunan was built at East Boothbay, Me., in 1903. She registered 53 tons net, was 75 feet long, 20 feet beam and 8.02 deep.

BLOWN FROM TRAIN

Newburyport Man Had Narrow Escape From Injury

NEWBURYPORT, Feb. 28.—Blown from a Boston & Maine train traveling 40 miles an hour, Harold A. Eldredge, aged 20, son of Capt. and Mrs. Sidney E. Eldredge of 65 Federal street, this city, escaped serious injury. One arm was badly sprained, more or less scratched and bruised and he was unnerved by the shock.

Mr. Eldredge left Boston, where he is employed, at 5:35. Shortly after the train had passed through Rowley he attempted to go from one car to another and had hardly reached the platform when the wind, which was blowing a gale, inflated a heavy coat he was wearing and whirled him through space.

Striking the ground near an embankment, he was turned over and over, finally bringing up against a telegraph pole. He was dazed by the fall but soon rallied and noted that he was near Newbury. He slowly walked back to Rowley and from there "phoned" to his mother, telling of his safety.

Later he boarded the 6:40 train out of Boston and arrived here at 8. He was met at the station by his father and by the pastor, Rev. Dr. W. H. Nugent and taken home in a carriage. He was then examined by a physician.

Mr. Eldredge's fall from the train was noted by a woman passenger, but she did not give an alarm until it was too late to stop. Officer Haley and citizens went from here on the 7:21 train to search the track between Rowley and Newbury as it was supposed the young man had been killed or seriously injured.

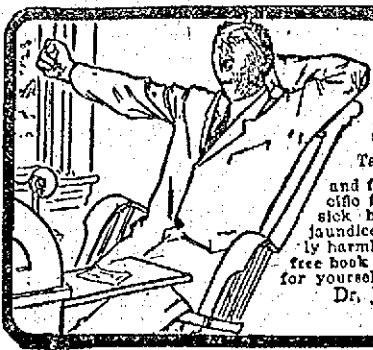

Mr. Eldredge is a graduate of a local business college and went to Boston to work last fall.

RAILROAD EMPLOYEES EXAMINATION

BOSTON, Feb. 28.—An annual mental examination for all railroad and street railroad employees found few supporters, but a large array of corporation attorneys in opposition at a hearing on the measure today before a legislative committee. Dr. P. C. Smith spoke in favor of the measure as a guard to public safety while the bill was opposed on the ground that it was unnecessary.

THE CHICAGO ELECTION

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—Primary election day for mayor and other city offices opened cloudy but with the weather bureau's promise of "fair weather for the day." Workers for the five republican and three democratic aspirants for the mayoralty nomination by their respective parties were out early, but in spite of predictions of fraud no trouble had been reported an hour after the voting began. A heavy vote was expected.

NEW CLAIMANT TO ESTATE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 28.—A new claimant to a share in the "Lucky" Baldwin estate appeared today when Mrs. Laura P. Alsip, of Illinois filed a paper in the probate court asserting that she is a daughter of the late fortune teller. She alleges that before 1850 Baldwin was known as "William H. Baldwin," and that under that name he was married to Ophelia Henderson at Chillicothe, O., September 9, 1845. Mrs. Alsip asserts that she was born of that marriage. The further charge is made that Baldwin abandoned his wife in 1853 and took the name of Elias Jackson Baldwin. Mrs. Alsip asks for one-third of the estate.

OPPOSED TO ANNEXATION

RIVERSIDE, Cal., Feb. 28.—"Canada will never be annexed to the United States," said Dr. James McDonald of Toronto at the conference of the World's Peace Foundation yesterday. "Neither will Canada or the United States ever oppose each other in war. The peace that has lasted between our two nations for a century past will last through all the centuries to come."

The conference was attended by several persons of national reputation, including Dr. David Starr Jordan who presided, Charles W. Fairbanks, John Burroughs, the naturalist, Bishop Lawrence of Massachusetts, and Albert K. and Daniel Smiley, the Lake Mohonk peace conference evangelists.

AGAINST RECIPROCITY

Head of National Grange Sends Appeal to Pres. Taft

CONCORD, N. H., Feb. 28.—Nabum J. Bachelder of this city, master of the National Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, today mailed to President Taft at Washington an appeal against Canadian reciprocity, asserting that the measure will greatly reduce farm values and result in a general calling in of loans on farm lands, thus tending to create a financial panic. The letter says in part:

"It cannot be successfully denied that the effect of this bill will be to reduce the prices paid to a large proportion of our farmers for their products. This being the case it follows that there will be an immediate fall in the value of our farm lands in all sections affected by Canadian competition. It is estimated that the loans on farm lands in this country amount to three billion dollars and a large part of these loans have been made out on the supposition that farming was to continue to be as profitable in the future as in recent years. The enactment of the reciprocity bill would at once result in a general calling in of hundreds of thousands of loans; farmers would be sold at a sacrifice; the stability of many banking institutions would be endangered and the direct and immediate effect of this bill becoming law would be to precipitate a financial convulsion that would be worse than the panic of 1907."

MEXICAN INSURRECTOS

Captured the City of Fronteras After a Battle

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Feb. 28.—The city of Fronteras, capital of the Mexican district, south of Douglas, is today in the hands of a band of 200 insurrectos. It was captured yesterday after a brief battle in which five rebels were killed. The resistance was offered by a little squad of militiamen within the town. The insurrectos surrounded the town early yesterday and ordered the federalists to surrender, the hour for capitulation being set for 10 o'clock. As the town had not formally surrendered at the hour set the rebels entered the streets a little later from every direction, shooting overhead.

The government troops at Agua Prieta have been ordered southward to attack the rebels. Another large force of rebels, reported as numbering from 300 to 500 appeared yesterday at Campbell's ranch east of the junction of the Fronteras and Bavispe rivers.

REVOLUTIONISTS' LEADER
SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb. 28.—"I do not believe there are any envoys or agents of the Mexican government in San Antonio," said Alphonse Madero, leader of the revolutionists last night on his arrival from Corpus Christi. "Envoys tried to deal with me at Corpus Christi a couple of days ago, but I referred them to Dr. Gomez in Washington."

Fernando Madero, another brother, said that peace commissioners were already in San Antonio. "The envoys did not have credentials and seemed greatly surprised when Senor Gomez demanded them. I know that one of the envoys was a close friend of President Diaz. The others they made it accompanied by credentials would have been acceptable a short time ago, but I am now doubtful about their outcome."

COMMISSIONER HOWE

Of the Charity Board Makes Important Recommendations

Harry W. J. Howe of the board of charities has in mind a number of changes and improvements he believes should be made at the Chelmsford street hospital, and he will probably suggest them at the next meeting of the board.

He believes there should be a house doctor at the hospital and more graduate nurses. "He believes there are too many cases there to be cared for by a visiting physician, and he figures that young doctors would be willing to spend a year there for a salary probably not exceeding $60 a month. He believes in the abolition of the office of city physician, for he says it does not meet present demands. He says that the number of nurses at the hospital at the present time is inadequate and he bases his statement on the fact that one nurse at the hospital has 30 patients to look after. He is also in favor of an increase in pay for nurses and attendants. "The nurses at the present time are receiving $1.07 a day and the attendants receive 55 cents a day. Both nurses and attendants are on duty from 14 to 16 hours a day. He also recommends a big change in the territory assigned district physicians, and believes that doctors with big practices should not seek the position. He says the district physicians should be young men whose practice has not grown to such an extent as to render it impossible for them to give the necessary attention to the district. He is also sternly opposed to district physicians holding upon other doctors to do their district work under the consent of the board. The districts covered by the six city physicians were assigned them under the old ward lines and he believes redistricting is absolutely necessary.

SEEKS REWARD

For the Arrest of Her Lover
PROVIDENCE, Feb. 28.—Mabel Brown, 18 years old, of Greenville, wants $1500 reward for finding the murderer of Miss Mary E. Eddy, because she says the crew which kept her lover, Earl V. Jacques, to state prison last month for life was furnished by her.

A hearing has been ordered by the town council of Smithfield for March 25 upon the claims of persons who have filed petitions for the reward. Inspectors John T. Haran and George H. Monahan of the Providence police department have filed their claims. They arrested Jacques.

At the time of the murder Gov. Higgins offered a reward of $500, the town council of Smithfield offered a similar amount, as did the Greenville woolen mills, where Miss Eddy was an operative. Miss Brown's claim is being vigorously championed by her stepfather, Isaac Brown, on the ground that Mabel received the $10 bill which was in the slain woman's pay envelope. This bill was changed for Jacques, who gave his sweetheart 50 cents for her trouble. Later she told all about the occurrence. The administrator of Town Sergeant Jenckes Smith also claims the reward.

INHALED GAS

BODY OF MAN WAS FOUND IN CLOSET
NORTH ADAMS, Feb. 28.—Joseph McNamee, aged 55, committed suicide at his place of business here last night by inhaling illuminating gas.

McNamee was located in the Wright block and a tenant on the second floor detected the odor of gas, and a search for the leak traced the trouble to McNamee's place.

The body of McNamee was found in a closet. McNamee had taken the burner from the gas pipe and had attached a tube, which he had placed in his mouth.

WOMAN OF 39

TO TAKE YOUNG MAN OF 21 AS HUSBAND
LEXINGTON, Feb. 28.—The news that Miss Nan Dow Plummer, of 377 Massachusetts avenue and Alfred D. Darling of 107 Auburn street, Cambridge, had taken out a marriage license in that city yesterday was a great surprise to the friends of Miss Plummer here. Miss Plummer gave her age to the city clerk as 38 years, while the prospective groom gave his age as 21 years.

The couple have been seen together much of late, but the friends of Miss Plummer had no thought of matrimony. Miss Plummer is an artist employed in Boston, while the prospective groom appears to be a young man of means and is the son of Henry Darling of Cambridge. Up to closing time of the town

HARLEM ROBBERS

Loot Home of a Tobacco Merchant
NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Two armed men forced their way into the Harlem home of Cesare Virgil, a tobacco merchant, yesterday, gagged Kathleen St. chez, a servant, and escaped with $1200 in jewelry and diamonds. Two workmen who recently repaired furniture in the house are suspected, as Mr. and Mrs. Virgil met them on the sidewalk as they left the house yesterday to go downtown.

Virgil, the maid opened the door in response to a ring, half an hour later, one of the two men stuck a revolver into her face and warned her not to shout. Stiff with fright she stood in her tracks while the second man gagged her. The men then carried her up three flights of stairs to a bedroom, where they bound her to the bed with knotted sheets and blankets. She worked herself free after struggling nearly an hour, tore the gag from her mouth and ran to the skylight. Just as her screams for help began to attract attention the two men walked out of the basement door and escaped.

top of a scutcheon which was in the yard. They were picked up by their companions and placed in the automobile protective and hurried to the West Sixth street fire house and a doctor summoned. Lieut. McCaffrey and Barnes sustained injuries to their backs, while Mansur injured his hands and wrists.

Cause Unknown
The cause of the fire is unknown, but it apparently started in the building which connected the barber shop and pool room with the Ames house.

Saved Many Buildings
The people of Dracut as well as Lowell people who were present at the tective companies responded, but when they reached the city line they remained there. When Assistant Chief Norton reached the city line he found the apparatus which had got out on the bell alarm. They asked him if they would leave the city and he ordered them to remain where they were until the chief arrived.

The four companies which responded to the bell alarm were waiting on the Lowell-Dracut line for orders when Chief Hosmer arrived and taking in a glance the size of the fire he ordered the companies to go into the Navy Yard and battle with the flames.

The crew of the Boston & Northern's sand car was kept busy this morning sanding the rails and scraping the troland did great work in endeavoring to save the company's property. The barn is filled with open cars, horses and other valuable property and when Curry learned of the fire he got all the horses together ready to remove them to a place of safety in the event of the fire spreading to the barn. He was also ready to run the cars out of the barn if the occasion warranted it.

The local firemen, who were protecting the barn and adjoining property, informed him that they would attend to the flying embers that fell on the roof and felt that it would not be necessary to remove any of the horses or cars.

Fred C. Church carried the insurance on the building and contents of Mrs. Phoebe Ames destroyed by fire last night.

Waited For Orders

As was expected there is more or less comment today relative to the local firemen leaving the city to fight the fire because of instructions to the effect that they should not respond to alarms for fires outside the city. It is up to Chief Hosmer to use his own judgment as to whether the apparatus should go to a fire in one of the suburban towns and the fact that the firemen are out to obey that order was never better demonstrated than last night.

It was shortly before midnight when a telephone alarm was sent in and Chief Hosmer upon learning of the extent of the fire notified Assistant Chief Norton, Engine 5 and hose wagon, Hose 12 and Truck 4 to respond.

At seven minutes after midnight the alarm was sent in from box 153 and hose companies 3 and 10, the chemical from the Central fire station and pro-fire are loud in their praise of the work of the Lowell firemen and they are unanimous in stating that but for the assistance rendered by Lowell the loss would have been much greater.

There were eight lines of hose laid to the burning building, six being manned by the Lowell men and two by the Dracut firemen.

The members of the protective and chemical companies did fine work in protecting the buildings in the immediate vicinity.

Burning For Long Time

Why the fire was not discovered earlier than it was seems rather strange inasmuch as Motorman Philip O'Brien and Conductor Ryan of the Boston & Northern, who aroused the neighborhood upon arriving at the Navy Yard saw the flames shooting skyward when they were approaching Collinsville.

The police officers have received strict orders to send every dog, without a collar bearing the license number, to the police station. Supt. Then there is an alligator hunt and other sports on the isthmus. Altogether the lecture is considered a rare treat, so instructive, so graphic, so realistic.

LIGHT SENTENCE

For Man Who Killed Another

BOSTON, Feb. 28.—Judge Jenney in the superior court yesterday afternoon sentenced James F. Farrell, 48, to the house of correction for two and a half years. He appeared in the same court last week, where he was tried for murder in the second degree.

While the trial was in progress, the attorney for Farrell asked the court if it would accept a plea of manslaughter. After a brief conference the plea was accepted.

Farrell was charged with killing James H. Lawson, aged 32, an ex-soldier of the U. S. army, on the night of July 18 in the boarding house at 910 Washington street, which was conducted by Farrell. Lawson had a room in the house and Farrell's niece was known as Mrs. Lawson. The Saturday night before there was a dispute in the house and Farrell put Mrs. Lawson out of his room, using considerable force.

When Lawson came home that night he was told by the woman supposed to be Mrs. Lawson of what had occurred and he went to Farrell's room and upbraided him. There was a fist fight in the room and Farrell was knocked down on the bed. Farrell drew a revolver and fired at Lawson. Two shots were fired, the first entering his left jaw. The second went through his body and he died inside of five minutes.

EXTRA LORIMER'S FRIENDS

Tried Hard to Press a Vote in the Senate

It is Understood That Vote on Matter Will be Taken on Thursday—Tariff Board Matter and Amendment to Post Office Appropriation Bill Will be Voted Upon on the Same Day

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—All night long the senate struggled with the Lorimer case, the friends of the junior Illinois senator seeking to break down the determination of his opponents not to permit a vote unless important concessions were made to them in relation to important measures of pending legislation. At 5:09 o'clock this morning a recess was taken until 11 o'clock, and it was announced that there was a chance for an agreement.

At one time it was suggested that an agreement might be reached by a division which would permit a vote on the Canadian reciprocity agreement with a pledge in advance that enough members pledged to vote for the commercial pact would absent themselves to encompass its defeat. The purpose of this suggestion was to avoid an extraordinary session if possible. It is not believed, however, Continued on Page Four

AUTOMOBILE BURNED

Machine Caught Fire on the Princeton Boulevard

The natty looking Knox runabout with single rumble seat, the property of Harold L. Chalfoux, of the J. L. Chalfoux Co., was badly damaged by fire near the Middlesex County Training school in Princeton street shortly after ten o'clock this morning, and Rep. George E. Marchand, chauffeur, and Omer Bineault, mechanic, had narrow escapes from being badly burned while attempting to extinguish the blaze.

The fire followed the explosion of gasoline in the muffler of the machine and before the blaze could be extinguished practically every piece of woodwork was destroyed and nothing remained of the machine but the chassis.

Messrs. Marchand and Bineault have been overhauling the three cars owned by the Messrs. Chalfoux, two of them being touring cars, while the other was the Knox runabout, which was damaged by fire.

The machine had been taken to pieces and cleaned and reassembled and taken out to the Princeton boulevard this morning for the purpose of seeing how it was running and to make any adjustments which might be necessary. Mr. Bineault was driving the car and Mr. Marchand was in the Pierce Arrow, was following him.

At a point near the Training school Mr. Bineault found that there was something out of order, and stopping the car, started to make an adjustment when he noted a leak in the pipe leading from the auxiliary gasoline tank on the dash to the carburetor. As he was about to remedy the trouble an explosion occurred and in a few seconds the top of the machine was ablaze. It seems that the trail pipe which conveys the gasoline from the auxiliary tank to the carburetor sprang a leak causing the gasoline to drop into the heated muffler, and the explosion occurred.

Messrs. Marchand and Bineault used snow and dirt, their coats and robes and everything within reach to extinguish the flames but found that their efforts were without avail. Word was sent to the Training school and a score of boys were ordered to the scene to assist in extinguishing the blaze and subsequently word was sent to this city and the Westford street chemical responded. When the chemical arrived the blaze was nearly out, a stream from one of the hand extinguishers putting an end to the fire. All of the body and practically everything but the framework and engine of the car was destroyed by the fire. The damage will amount to about $1,000.

Rep. Marchand had his big coat destroyed while using it as an extinguisher and both he and Mr. Bineault had narrow escapes from being badly burned by the explosion of gasoline and the fire which followed.

ASH RECEPTACLE

Built by the Massachusetts Mills

"Is that a big water tank that is being installed near the new boiler house that is being built by the Massachusetts Mills?"

This question was asked a reporter for The Sun this forenoon, and not being able to answer the question at that time he sought information at the office of the Massachusetts Mills and learned that what has the appearance of a large water tank is an ash receptacle—one of the most modern kind.

The wheeling of ashes from boilers in big plants is a thing of the past. This new arrangement, which may be seen from the hill in Stockpiled street, sucks the ashes from the furnaces and deposits them in carts. It is worked by a series of fans and is automatic. There is no shovelling in the process at all. The cart is backed under the machine and the ashes pour into

FAMILY ESCAPED

BATH, Me., Feb. 28.—When fire broke out around the chimney in the home of William Webster on Huse street early today all the members of the family were asleep. But "Colonel," the family dog, over on the alert for nocturnal disturbances was wide awake. He saw the blaze and with great presence of mind did his duty. Jumping up on Mr. and Mrs. Webster's bed and barking loudly he aroused them and called their attention to the danger.

Then in turn he awoke their son and all three made a hasty exit only partly dressed. The house was badly damaged. At another early morning fire which damaged the dwelling of H. L. Mudgett at Winnegance, Joseph Thompson, 19 years old, was partly overcome by smoke. Mr. Mudgett rescued him. Both were slightly burned.

FIREMEN INJURED

SKETCH SHOWING THE FIRE AT THE NAVY YARD LAST NIGHT. THE THREE FIREMEN ARE SHOWN FALLING FROM THE LADDER WHICH BROKE

Disastrous Blaze Broke Out in Dracut Navy Yard

One of the most dangerous fires in the history of the town of Dracut broke out about midnight last night in the property of Mrs. Phoebe Ames in the Navy Yard district and before the blaze was extinguished, $5,000 worth of property had been destroyed.

The fire gained great headway before it was discovered. The Dracut fire department was soon on the scene but was unable to cope with the flames and a telephone call and a bell alarm from box 165 at the corner of Lakeview avenue and Fred street brought a large portion of the Lowell fire department to the scene and the fire was confined to the Ames property.

Lieut. James J. McCaffrey, Hoseman E. S. Barnes, and Callman Fred Mansur of Hose 10 in Fourth street had narrow escapes from being killed as a result of a fall from an extension ladder, which was laid against the ell of the Ames house. The three men were directing a line of hose into the burning building when the rope used for hoisting the ladder broke and the extension dropped, causing the men to be thrown to the ground.

The blaze from the burning buildings illuminated the sky for miles around and despite the lateness of the hour hundreds of people were attracted to the scene and remained there until the local department left the place.

The wind wafted the flying embers towards other buildings and the firemen were kept busy protecting adjoining property. The large car barn of the Boston & Northern Street Railway Co. in Lakeview avenue, which contains thousands of dollars' worth of valuable property was in great danger of being destroyed but for the zealous work of the members of the local fire department, who kept that as well as other property in the vicinity protected.

Easy Prey for Flames
The buildings, which are of wooden construction, are located at the corner of Lakeview avenue and Pleasant street and the fire when fanned by the strong north wind which was blowing caused the flames to eat through the buildings with lightning like rapidity.

The blaze was discovered by Philip O'Brien, a motorman on the Boston & Northern. While passing the corner he noticed the flames creeping out from the story and a half structure which connected the Ames homestead, facing on Pleasant street, with the large wooden building which fronts on Lakeview avenue, the latter building containing two unoccupied tenements and William Keefe's barber shop and pool room.

Neighborhood Aroused
Word was sent to the Navy Yard

fire department and the alarm of fire was soon spread through the neighboring district and residents of the vicinity were early on the scene to render assistance.

Lowell Department Called
The Navy Yard firemen saw at a glance that they would be unable to cope with the flames which were making rapid headway, and endangering other buildings in the vicinity, and word was telephoned to Lowell and a messenger was sent to the corner of Lakeview avenue and Fred street to sound an alarm from box 165.

A few minutes after the alarm was sounded a portion of the Lowell apparatus arrived. When the local men reached the place the sparks were flying in every direction. Several lines of hose were directed into the burning buildings and buildings in the vicinity were frequently wet down with water in order to keep them from catching fire. The firemen had a tough proposition on hand but they worked hard and finally extinguished the flames, but not before considerable damage had been done.

Had Narrow Escape
Mrs. Phoebe Ames and her son, Albert Caddell, were asleep in the homestead when the fire broke out, but fortunately were awakened by the light of the fire and the shouts of people who had gathered in the street, and had just time enough to don a few articles of wearing apparel and make their escape from the building.

Firemen Injured
It was after the fire was under control and the firemen were directing water into the interior of the Ames building that the ladder dropped which precipitated three members of the local department to the ground.

An extension ladder had been laid against the L of the Ames house and Lieut. McCaffrey and Hosemen Barnes and Mansur were standing on the rungs of the extension, directing a stream into the building when the rope broke, releasing the hooks which held the extension in place. The extension telescoped with a crash and then toppled over, throwing all three men to the ground. The ladder was part of the equipment of the Navy Yard department.

Lieut. McCaffrey and Mansur struck the ground and Barnes was thrown on

THE PARK DEPT.

Is Making a Great War on the Moths

The park department is making war on the moths and the job of ridding the trees of moth-eaten twigs is considerable hard work. The moth gang was busy in East Merrimack and Stackpole streets this forenoon and it is safe to say that passersby did not envy them their job. To take up a position in a great high tree and manipulate a pole several yards long on a day like this is not as easy or comfortable a job as others that one might have in mind. The work, too, is attended with considerable danger. A slip of the spur or a drop of the pole might precipitate the manipulator to the street, but fortunately these accidents are not of frequent occurrence. In order to get at the home of the moth it is necessary to cut liberal portions of limbs away and the streets where the moth men are at work receive generous offerings from the trees. The twigs and branches, however, are quickly gathered by men on the ground so that travel is not inconvenienced in any way. The moth work will continue for several weeks.

DESTROYED BY FIRE

STOUGHTON, Feb. 28.—A two-story block at the corner of Wyman and Washington streets, in the center of this town, was destroyed by fire early today causing a loss estimated at $20,000. The building was owned by Walter Swan and occupied by the district court and five stores. It is thought that the blaze originated from an over-heated boiler. At one time it was feared that the flames would communicate with adjoining structures, but with aid from Brockton the local department confined the fire to the structure in which it started.

MANY PERISHED

Fishing Disaster in the Gulf of Finland

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 28.—According to the official report of the fishing disaster in the Gulf of Finland 500 persons were engaged several miles off the shore of Lauenburg Island when on Feb. 23 the ice beneath them broke from the shore and drifted away, carrying the fishermen with their families, horses and outfit far out to sea. Their cries for help were not heard at the time but late in the evening the short waves observed the ice floe, and ice breakers were sent in pursuit. A three days search proved fruitless. In the meantime the floe broke into several parts, each bearing 40 or 50 persons. In the break up many fell into the water and perished. Two parties, totalling 120 persons, were subsequently driven ashore. No news of the remainder has been received.

HARVARD CREWS

HAVE LOST TWO NEW RACING SHELLS

CAMBRIDGE, Feb. 28.—Harvard's crews have suffered a handicap by the loss of two new racing shells recently shipped from London which were ruined in the rough passage. The shells were brought over by the steamer Georgian, which experienced rough weather in crossing. The Harvard boats were lashed to the main deck and the heavy seas which broke over the Georgian caused the shells to be damaged. The development of the Harvard crews this year has been retarded by the loss of the two shells. The Charles river remains frozen and open water is not expected for some time.

THE TRIAL OF ROBIN

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—With the expected filing of the jury box today, the trial of Joseph Robin, the former banker, on a grand larceny charge, will be begun in earnest but with the prospect that it will be many days, perhaps weeks, before it will be completed. Former District Attorney Jerome, Robin's counsel, who declares his belief that Robin is insane, despite a jury's verdict to the contrary, has announced his purpose to take advantage of every technical point in behalf of his client. Only six jurors were chosen yesterday.

FOREST STANLEY, WHO ASSUMES THE LEADING ROLE IN "THE LION AND THE MOUSE."

THE OPERA HOUSE

That popular masterpiece by Charles Klein, "The Lion and the Mouse," that made such a great hit in Boston and New York, was presented at the Opera House last night before a large audience. Although seen here on former occasions, it was at high prices, yet the performance in the present case is on such a high and pretentious scale that it equals in almost every detail some of the best presentations of the play. Each member of the company is well adapted for the role assigned and the result is a performance of a rare order.

Many of those who saw this play given at the Park theatre in Boston attended again last night and enjoyed the performance almost as much as if they had not seen it before. But for the effect of the moving picture shows upon high dramatic performances this thrilling play of American life would never be presented at popular prices. But it is here this week at considerable cost to the theatre, for there is a high royalty to be paid for the privilege of presenting it.

The cast last night was as follows: John Burckett Ryder, Forrest Stanley, Jefferson Ryder, his son, Benedict MacQuarrie, Ex-Judge Stott, Chas. J. Haines, Hon. Fitzroy Bagley, Frank M. Christie, Judge Rossmore, J. H. Huntley, Senator Roberts, Russell Clark, James Deetle, Albert Hanna, James Deetle, Henry Smith, Joskins, Frank Wright, Expressman, George Callahan, Shirley Rossmore, Frances Whitehouse, Mrs. John Burckett Ryder.

Geraldine Russell, Kate Roberts, Miss Nesbitt, Mrs. Rossmore, Mae Dickenson, Eudora, Maude, Fox, Majd, Mamie Tucke.

Forrest Stanley in the leading role made a very accomplished "John Burckett Ryder." His ambition, his egotism and storn worldly qualities were well portrayed. Mr. Stanley seems to have mastered his role so as to bring out all its subtleties and in doing so he at once wins the unstinted applause of the audience. This is particularly true of his portrayal in the second and third acts. Frances Whitehouse proved a very charming character as Shirley Rossmore, her conception of the role being at all times clear and intelligent while her acting was that of an artist. Miss Russell, as the abused wife of Ryder, played her part with rare skill and grace. Mary Sanders as Kate Roberts, Charles J. Haines as Judge Stott, Benedict MacQuarrie in the youthful role of Ryder's son, Miss Hollis as Miss Nesbitt, and several other members of the company in minor roles were all deserving of commendation. In every detail the performance was worthy of praise and it last night's presentation be, as we believe it was, a fair criterion for what is to come during the week, we should say that those who see "The Lion and the Mouse" will not be disappointed.

"THE GIRL IN THE TAXI"

Interest runs high in the forthcoming appearance in this city of that wonderfully successful and highly entertaining Parisian sensation, "The Girl in the Taxi," which is scheduled for one night at the Opera House Thursday, March 9th.

The record achieved by this play is an enviable one. Produced in Chicago it scored an unqualified triumph and settled itself firmly in the hearts of the theatre-going public as the grandest and most daring play ever brought out in the western metropolis. For 300 nights it proved a potent magnet to crowd the theatre to the doors and it might be running there yet, but for contracts which demanded its presentation in Boston at a certain date. "The Girl in the Taxi" went from Chicago to Boston and repeated its phenomenal success. For three solid months is caused the crude amusement lovers of that city to forget their books and to give themselves up to the overwhelming and altogether delightful charms of the fascinating lady who forms the pivot of the play around which her husband's admirers clamor for her favors. The press and public of New York likewise acclaimed "The Girl in the Taxi" in the highest terms, the New York Journal declaring it to be the funniest play Broadway had ever witnessed. "The Girl in the Taxi" should not be missed. It's like, will not soon be seen on the local boards.

THEATRE VOYONS

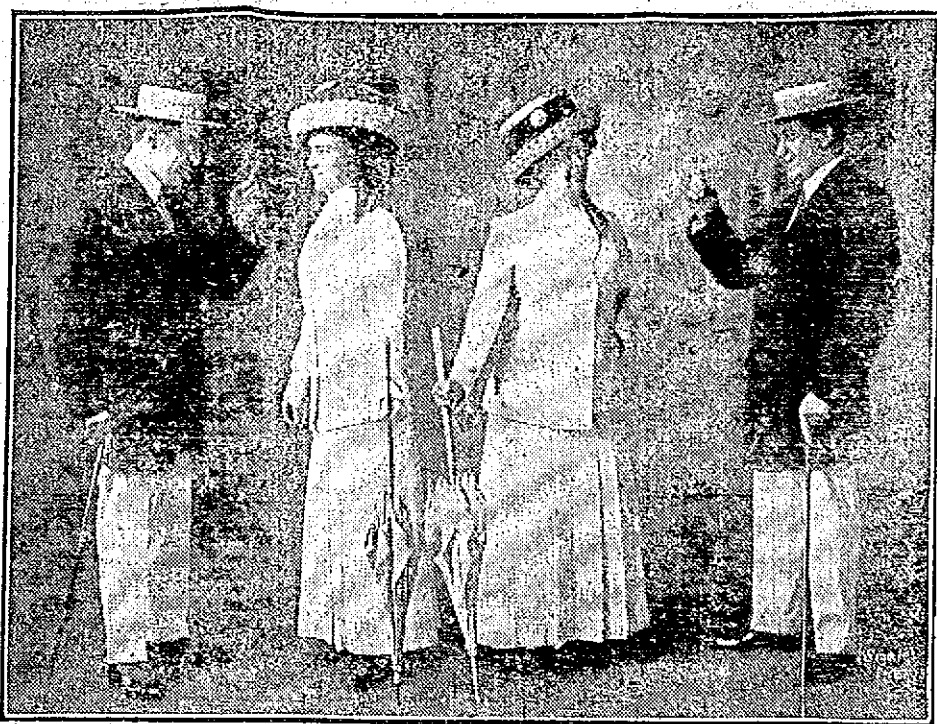

A laughing show is the bill at the Theatre Voyons today and the comedies "Hubby's Troubles" and "Dobbs the Deuber" are real screams. The first tells of the unfortunate circumstances which lead hubby's mother-in-law to think he has been flirting and the trouble that ensues. The second is a good old-fashioned chase with plenty of genuinely clever comedy work injected. The dramatic subject is "The Rival Sculptors," an Edison of the best kind and telling a story that is unequalled for beauty. There is a particularly good scenic subject and the musical program is excellent.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Another good show was presented at the Academy yesterday, and one that contained many novel features. The pictures include the funeral of the late Archbishop Ryan, with its vast number of clergymen in attendance. The Cliff Bailey Trio are sensational across-balls and perform some very daring tricks in their barrel jumping stunts. Adams Brothers have a big roller skating novelty with special scenery. Claude and Marlon Cleveland, "that harmonizing duo," sing well and introduce some real live comedy that will put you in good humor with their droll sayings. They are clever entertainers and will be sure to please.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

"Charley's Aunt," that old but ever popular roaring farce, was presented in a capable manner by the Donald Meek Stock company last night at Hathaway's theatre before a large and appreciative audience. The play itself is too well known to the theatre-goers of this city to go into detail other than to say that three Oxford students find it necessary to furnish a chaperon for two young ladies who are going to be present at the commencement exercises. One of the students had promised that his aunt, who was to have

YE' COLONIAL SERENADERS AT THE MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE ALL THIS WEEK

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Never was the Merrimack Square theatre visited by such a large crowd as attended the performance last night. The spacious hall was filled to its seating capacity and many of the latecomers had to stand.

The main feature of the bill at the theatre this week is Miss Frankie Drew, billed as the Balloon Girl. She is a dainty little blonde person with lots of ginger and a pleasing voice. She sings a couple of songs out on the edge of the stage, about aeroplanes and airships, and then all is darkness. Then out of the gloom there emerges from the stage a real life-sized balloon, with a dim red light about where the flame in a Fourth of July balloon ought to be, a light just bright enough to illuminate the figure of Miss Drew seated in a miniature basket of the ship. The balloon and its passengers swing out over the audience, up and down from the level of the gallery to almost within reach of the hands of those in the orchestra and from one row of boxes to the other.

The mystery connected with how that balloon is navigated as it is, adds another touch to something already sufficiently interesting to delight every spectator. Miss Drew comes out in her balloon every day at 3.50, 7.15 and 9.45 p. m.

The Colonial Serenaders, a mixed quartet, entertain honorably with a first class repertoire of songs all well sung. The costuming at the opening of the act is elaborate and there are special electrical effects.

After a couple of songs appropriate to the Colonial period, the four appear in modern garb and give a medley of popular hits. The voices are rich and powerful and the ensemble forms a very good act. They appear at 3.15, 6.30 and 9.20 p. m.

Vonder and Belmar are two knock-about acrobats who create lots of fun while performing really difficult stunts. Their feats of strength and skill are marvelous. It is a clean snappy act, with something to watch every minute from curtain to curtain.

Jack Dempsey, who impersonates a tramp comedian has with him a funny monologue, some new jokes and local hits and a pair of remarkably nimble feet.

He gets a laugh the minute he appears on the stage with his monologue and gets more with his humorous sort of dancing. He is clever and extremely funny.

Ray F. Dennis is the soloist, a singer of ability with a good selection of songs and ballads handsomely illustrated.

The list of moving pictures, all of the daylight variety, are unusually varied in character. The feature film is perhaps that depicting the funeral of Archbishop Ryan in Philadelphia, which occurred but a short time ago.

The above bill will be presented continuously all this week, from 1 until 10.30 p. m. Lora, the Human Parrot, one of the season's sensations of the largest circuits, is announced as an attraction for next week.

TAKEN TO ASYLUM

Man Served 11 Years in Jail for Debt

DOVER, N. H., Feb. 28.—Alfred W. Jones, formerly of Milton, who for the past 11 years has been a voluntary prisoner for debt in the Strafford county jail, having repeatedly refused to take the poor debtor's oath, has been adjudged mentally unsound, and was yesterday taken to Concord by County Commissioner Edgar J. Ham and committed to the state insane hospital by order of Judge Pike of the superior court.

Regarded as an eccentric character by his townsmen during his long residence in Milton, and feared by many because of his eccentricities, Jones has passed a somewhat weird existence, particularly so during the past decade and a half. Not long before going into voluntary imprisonment, he had been tried and acquitted of the murder of his mother by poisoning. The trial in the superior court here was a long and sensational one.

This case was hardly out of the way when Jones was sued by Walter A. Cripps of Brunswick, Me., a boy who had lived in Jones' home for 10 years as his ward, to recover $2000 damages for injuries alleged to have been received through whippings and other cruel treatment administered by Jones. The case was tried at the September term and resulted in a verdict of $1825 for the plaintiff. Jones refused to satisfy the judgment against him, signed his property over to his wife and gave himself up to the Strafford county authorities to be imprisoned for debt. He refused to take the poor debtor's oath, although brought over from jail a number of times to do so, when he seemed on the point of yielding. In addition to the amount of the verdict for Cripps there were Jones' attorneys' fees and those of the boy's attorneys, which Jones also refused to pay.

Jones for years had professed to be a very religious man and claimed he was being persecuted. He declared the county would have to take care of him, and it has for more than 11 years. Of late Jones has been troubled with hallucinations and the county commissioners decided to apply for an inquisition to have him examined as to his sanity.

Although the men appeared pretty evenly matched and there was little to choose between them, the fight was awarded to Wells on points.

Writ of Error Acts as Reprieve of Death Sentence

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—After being admitted to practice before the U. S. supreme court yesterday, Atty. Gen. James M. Swift of Massachusetts inquired into the status of two important cases pending before the court on appeal from the Massachusetts supreme court. One is the case of Chester S. Jordan, sentenced to death for murder, and the other is the Commonwealth against the Provident Institution to something more than $100,000. John C. Gray of Boston is attorney for the savings bank. A hearing on the appeal in this case probably will be held in April.

As the result of a conference yesterday between Atty. Gen. Swift and Commissioner Trevelyan of the interstate commerce commission it was decided to hold hearings in Boston on the Massachusetts milk rate cases the latter part of April. After the hearings attorneys for the commonwealth and the railroads will present their arguments before the commission in Washington.

The milk cases, briefs on which were submitted to the commission by both sides in December, were held up because of the change in attorneys general in Massachusetts. Mr. Swift will have full charge of the cases for Massachusetts hereafter.

SHE GOT WHAT SHE WANTED

This Woman Had to Insist Strongly, but it Paid

Chicago, Ill.—"I suffered from a female weakness and stomach trouble, and I went to the store to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but the clerk did not want to let me have it—he said it was no good and wanted me to try something else, but knowing all about it I insisted, and finally got it, and I am so glad I did, for it has cured me."

"I know of so many cases where women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I can say to every suffering woman if that medicine does not help her, there is nothing that will."—Mrs. JANET ZELI, 2503 Arch St., Chicago, Ill.

This is the age of substitution, and women who want a cure should insist upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound just as this woman did, and not accept something else on which the druggist can make a little more profit.

Women who are passing through this critical period, or who are suffering from any of those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of the fact that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

NERVE STRAIN

Doctors tell us that a vast percentage of the breakdowns and troubles today are from overworked, undernourished nerves. We Americans strain every nerve in our body trying to make a success in life, and do not nourish and feed our nervous system so as to make it equal to the strain; the result is we are broken down old men and women before we are 40 years of age. The nerve tissues must be fed and strengthened, the stomach must be assisted in doing the work of digesting the food, the blood must be enriched and circulation quickened, the body and brain must be invigorated, so that we can withstand the strain and retain health, strength and youth.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, the world's most reliable tonic-stimulant and strength-builder, is an ideal remedial agent for nervous people or anyone under a nervous strain. It quiets the nerves and starts the gastric juices so that the food can be digested. It is a food in itself that gives strength and fills the blood with bright red corpuscles.

Doctors and other scientists all over America know that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey does wonders in aiding the digestion and assimilation of the food and in bringing vigor to the body.

It is sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY by all druggists, grocers and dealers, or direct, $1.00 a large bottle. Look for the "Old Chemist" on the label and make sure the seal over the cork is unbroken. Medical booklet containing rare common-sense rules for health and testimonials, also doctor's advice, sent free to anyone who writes. The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

THE FOURTH ESTATE

WINNING POPULARITY AT A BOSTON THEATRE

"The Fourth Estate" at the Shubert theatre has unmistakably "caught on" in Boston, and the second week opened last evening with every indication of a continuance of that generous patronage from enthusiastic audiences which characterized the inaugural week of the engagement. The aim of Liebler & Co., has been to provide a play of present day American life that strikes straight out from the shoulder. That the big interests should make an attempt to dictate the policy of the press is readily understood, but that the press is in the main honest and fearless in its exposure of corruption is also a fact that is well demonstrated in "The Fourth Estate."

SENATOR BOURNE

Taft's Once Intimate Friend Makes Attack on the President

He Says Chief Executive Tried to Intimidate Members of Congress—No One Championed Cause of the President

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—President Taft by inference was charged last night with using his appointive power to intimidate members of congress. This inference charge was made in a speech in the senate by Senator Jonathan Bourne of Oregon, president of the new progressive league, and until recent trouble over an Oregon appointment, the intimate friend and golfing companion of the chief executive. The surprising thing was that although all of the senator's audience construed his remarks as an attack upon the president, not a word was uttered in reply.

The Beverly letter in which Secretary Norton said that the president had withheld federal patronage from certain senators and congressmen but that he would discontinue the practice was brought into prominence. On previous occasions insurgent senators had threatened to read this letter into the senate but until last night no public reference had been made to it.

Mr. Bourne opened his speech by a discussion of the Oregon law. He said that when this law is enacted by all the states it will destroy the power of the federal machine to appoint a president or determine his successor. The "steam roller" he says, will be relegated to the political scrap heap and its operators to the shadow of things forgotten while fourth class postmasters will cease to be a political asset for anybody or any party.

Senator Bourne said that the use of the presidential appointing power to coerce members of congress would be either bribery or intimidation—bribery if patronage was used as a reward and intimidation if withheld as punishment. He read section 5450 of the revised statutes, making it a crime for any person to offer or give anything of value to any member of either house of congress with intent to influence his vote or decision upon any matter pending in either house. He then said:

"The natural inference from the Norton letter is that the president of the United States used federal patronage to influence the action of members of congress. This is a charge which no citizen can discuss without regret, yet the whole subject is of such vital importance in the preservation of representative government that I would feel remiss in my duty if I failed to call it to the attention of the country and place in available form such information relating thereto as may come to my attention. The undeniable statement indicates a dangerous and disreputable subservience on the part of the legislative branch and a dangerous and demoralizing usurpation upon the part of the executive.

"I would have as much respect for a common ward healer who buys votes at the polls as for a president of the United States who uses his appointing power as a means of forcing or persuading members of congress to act in a certain way. One transaction is as dishonest, as corrupt and as depraving as the other, but the latter is more dangerous, more insidious, more pernicious than the former because it strikes at the very foundation of free institutions, sets a precedent for corrupt methods in all official life and marks the beginning of dictatorship and despotism of the constitution. But Mr. President, the use of the appointive power to influence the action of members of congress is only one means by which this power may be used. Federal patronage is also an effective and dangerous power when wielded for the creation or maintenance of a political machine with the purpose of forcing renomination of an executive or the nomination of a man of his choice."

Mr. Bourne outlined the manner in which civil employes are sometimes used to control national conventions and complained particularly of their use in sending delegations from southern states, which never send republican representatives to electoral colleges.

He said in conclusion: "Extension of the power of the executive is the beginning of dictatorship. The remedy is to make presidents directly accountable to party and general elections by enacting laws for presidential primary votes thereby destroying the power of political bosses and their backers, the campaign contributors. The people can be trusted. The composite citizen knows more and acts from higher motives than any single individual however great, experienced or well developed. In the composite citizen, selfishness is minimized while in the individual it is usually dominant."

FINAL PAYMENT

Made in Massachusetts Mills Stock

The last payment has been made on Massachusetts Mills stock and now the full capital of $3,000,000 has been paid in, and yet the capital is much below the cost of replacement of this big property. At the annual meeting on February 13, the treasurer reported debts of $2,506,055 against assets of $1,145,435 or about $50 a share on the entire $3,000,000 capital.

Cotton Manufacturers

The nineteenth annual meeting of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers will be held at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston, Mass., April 12 and 13, 1911. These dates have been selected because they immediately follow the Congress of Technology, which will be held on the fifteenth anniversary of the charter of that institution, and it is expected that many of those present will remain to attend the meeting.

President MacLaurin of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology will speak at the opening session and during the meeting papers are expected on the following subjects:

"Arbitration on Cancellation of Orders," "By-Products in Cotton Manufacture," "Doffing Machines and Their Relation to Child Labor," "Electric Power Transmission to Cotton Mills," "The Cotton Industry of the Textile Plant and Its Relation to the Market," "Gas Producers and Gas Engines for Cotton Mills," "Humidification," "Law of Moisture in Cotton and Wool," "Methods of Cost Finding in Cotton Mills," "Moisture in Cotton," "Renaissance of the Waterfall," "Rewinding Textile Yarn," "Sandwich Island Cotton," "Textile Education From a Manufacturing Standpoint," "Weaving Shed Roof Construction."

There will also be reports on standard specifications and other subjects by special committees.

DANCING PARTY

HELD IN GRANGE HALL IN DRACUT

A well attended dancing party was held in Grange hall, Dracut Centre, last night under the auspices of the Gen. Butler Veteran Firemen's association. The affair proved to be a success in every particular and the money made on the party will be used towards defraying the expense brought about by the purchase of the new band tub.

The success of the affair was due to the zealous work of the following competent officials: General manager; James H. Walker; assistants, John C. Cook, Harry Clay, John J. Magoo, James Lavan, Mark Kennedy, James R. Curry, W. W. Murphy, Asa Sisk and Fred A. Tucker.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of Division 5, A. O. H. was held last night in Hibernian hall. Seven propositions for membership were received and the members of the division are hustling in order to have a large number of applicants for the coming class initiation, which takes place on April 16. The committee appointed to make arrangements for the coming anniversary of the division reported progress and if the plans already outlined are carried out the division will outdo all former efforts. There will be several prominent men of the order, who will address the members, together with a fine literary entertainment by local members of the order. The anniversary will be on April 24, and will be the 21st of the division.

General Ames Command, United Spanish War Veterans, met last night in Memorial hall, Commander Sutherland presiding. Considerable routine business was transacted and it was voted to hold a meeting on March 13th with the general committee which is to have charge of the convention to be held in this city April 19. All veterans are invited, whether they are members of the command or not. There will be a smoker and refreshments will be served. The ladies' auxiliary of the command held a largely attended meeting last night and passed on many minor matters. The members are also preparing for the coming convention. The membership of the auxiliary is increasing steadily.

American Benefit Society
There was a well attended meeting of Protection lodge, American Benefit society, last night in Pilgrim hall. Considerable routine business was transacted during the early part of the meeting after which the following interesting program was carried out:

Refreshments were served later in the evening.

JESSIE M. HAGAR

Chosen Asst. Supervisor of Music

The school board meeting scheduled for tonight was held last night. The board elected Miss Jessie M. Hagar to succeed Miss Josephine C. Coburn as assistant supervisor of music. The abolition of High school fraternities was voted; the petition asking that the state board of education investigate without expense to the city, conditions in Lowell with relation to the need of an industrial school was endorsed, and the pay of three school janitors was increased.

On recommendation of the committee on school houses and hygiene, John J. O'Connor and George Daly were elected permanent janitors, in order to comply with the state law in relation to steam boilers.

It was voted to hold the annual exhibit of work of the evening drawing school at the close of the term. The exhibition will be held at the Whittier house, the directors of the Lowell Art association giving the use of the house for one week for that purpose, without cost to the city.

The salary of M. J. Lynch, head janitor of the High school, was fixed at $3 a day and that of Michael Donovan of the Lincoln school and F. J. Burch of the Washington school at $2.50 a day.

The committee on rules recommended:

"To amend section 35 of chapter 17 of the rules, by striking out the entire section and inserting the following:

Section 25.—Organizations known as fraternities and sororities are hereby forbidden in the High school, and shall not be permitted to have socials, dances, parties, balls, musicals, theatricals or other social events, without the consent of the head master.

The head master is instructed to restrict the number or to prohibit all social functions or events that in his judgment interfere with the regular school work and are prejudicial to the best interests of the pupils and the school.

The school board endorsed the petition, signed by the president of the Middlesex Women's club and chairman of the sociology department, that club and by the president and secretary of the board of trade, asking that the state board of education investigate, without cost to the city, the conditions in Lowell relative to the needs of industrial education. Such investigations have been made by the state in Somerville, New Bedford, Worcester and other cities.

It having been found that the Colburn primary school was not assigned, through an oversight, to any sub-committee, the president assigned it to Mr. Farrington.

A petition for permission to have lectures given by Col. C. H. French, in the various grammar schools, where the principles are willing to make bookings, was referred to the board of supervisors.

A tribute paid the character and efficiency of Miss Josephine Coburn, former assistant supervisor of music, by Mr. Goward was endorsed by a rising vote.

It was voted that the grammar masters be asked to give to the board an opinion of the standing of penmanship in the schools, with such suggestions as they may have for the improvement of the same.

The board proceeded to the election of an assistant supervisor of music. There was a long list of candidates and on the second ballot, Miss Jessie M. Hagar received five of the nine votes and was elected.

Big time, A. O. H. hall, tonight.

MAJOR BEATTIE

Wants Prominent Display of British Flag

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 28.—An echo of annexation talk was heard in the Canadian house last night when a resolution was offered by Major Beattie, conservative member for London, Ont., declaring that "regulations should be issued providing that wherever a foreign flag is displayed, except by the representative of a foreign government, a British flag shall be displayed in a more prominent position."

Major Beattie said too many American flags were flown in Canada by summer residents from across the line and by tourists in automobiles who whirled through the country with their automobiles decorated with the stars and stripes, but without a British flag being anywhere displayed. This, he said, irritated many Canadians.

Dr. Fuglesy, minister of public works, said that the British ensign should be more freely displayed in the Dominion, and he agreed that the frequent display of foreign flags was not agreeable to the people.

Mr. Fielding, finance minister, said that for Canada there was only one flag and that was the British emblem.

Dr. Edwards of Frontenac declared that many American summer residents in central Ontario insisted upon displaying the stars and stripes at their camps and declined to fly the British emblem. This attitude, he characterized as highly distasteful to Canadians, who had no objection to the American flag, but resented any implied discourtesy to the flag of this country.

Dr. Clark, liberal member from Alberta, said the many Americans coming into western Canada make good citizens. They assimilate easily but they would be so willing to become British subjects if the Union Jack is waved in their faces too much," he said.

Mr. Fielding suggested that the resolution be withdrawn for a time to give the government opportunity to investigate.

Captain Wallace of York, Ont., and several other conservative members objected to the resolution being withdrawn.

B. M. MacDonald, liberal, affirmed his belief that the British flag alone should be recognized in Canada and that the government should be given time to look into the question before a change was made in the law. He moved adjournment of the debate.

This motion was supported by the liberals and opposed by the conservatives. It carried on a strict party division, by a majority of 40.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 28.—By a party vote of 26 to 14, the senate last night adopted Assemblyman Cuvilliers' resolution urging President Taft to call an extra session of congress to revise the tariff downward. Minority Leader Brackett assailed the majority for their "monumental exhibition of incompetence."

CONGRESSIONAL EULOGIES ON DECEASED MEMBERS

In no particular feature is the oratory of congress more distinguished than in the style, force and eloquence of the eulogies upon departed members of either house. In the senate especially, the memorial addresses are of a very high order. Always carefully prepared, they usually represent the very highest efforts of the speakers and err, if at all, only in the excess of praise lavished upon the departed who have usually been close friends of the speakers. Formerly the senators drew freely upon the poets for glowing quotations to cap a climax or bring a period to a graceful close; but the allusions suitable for such orations have been so hackneyed that they are now avoided by the eminent orators and are used only by the second or third rate, chiefly by members of the lower branch.

Senator Lodge on Saturday delivered an eulogy upon the late Senator Daniels of Virginia that for real power of eloquence has rarely been excelled. He did not resort to the hackneyed poetical quotations, but his address, polished as it was and thrilling in historic and patriotic fire, suffered not on that account. Let one paragraph, and that not the most eloquent, show the character of Senator Lodge's speech:

"Except in the golden age of Athens, I do not think that any community of equal size, only a few thousands in reality, has produced in an equally brief time as much ability as was produced by the Virginian planters at the period of the American revolution."

"Washington and Marshall, Jefferson and Madison, Patrick Henry, the Lees and the Randolphs, Masons and Wythe—what a list it is of soldiers and statesmen, of orators and lawyers."

"The responsibility of representing such a past and such a tradition is as great as the honor. Senator Daniel never forgot either the honor or the responsibility. Can more be said in his praise than that he worthily guarded the one and sustained the other?"

But within the past week there were various other eulogies delivered upon departed members of the senate and house, including Senator Clay of Georgia, Representatives Gilmore of Louisiana and Brownlow of Tennessee. Some of the addresses in praise of these men would apply equally to the memory of some of the greatest men that ever lived. On no other subject are the members so gushy as upon the passing of a fellow member to:

"The undiscovered country from whose bourn No traveler returns."

Senator Clay, from all we can learn, was a man of reasonable ability and was 58 years old when he died. On February 19th the business of the house was suspended in order to allow the delivery of eulogies by several speakers. Some of the speeches were printed in the following issue of the Record while some were held over to appear later; but what was remarkable about them was the fulsome praise of deceased and the number of poetical quotations. There is one quotation sure to be used on such occasions, and in this particular case it was used twice, by two different speakers. Of course a man who prepares a very fine eulogy and winds up a great period with a quotation cannot be expected to change it just because somebody else used it a few minutes before. That would be presuming too much upon the ability of most congressmen. Hence the audience was regaled to the familiar quotation from Bryant's Thanatopsis which runneth thus:

"So live that when thy summons comes to join
The innumerable caravan which moves
To that mysterious realm where each shall take
His chamber in the silent halls of death,
Thou go not like the quarry slave at night,
Scourged to his dungeon, but sustained and soothed
By an unfaltering trust approach thy grave,
Like one that wraps the drapery of his couch
About him and lies down to pleasant dreams."

Rep. Burnett wound up the debate with this peroration:

"But he is gone, and Georgia will miss his great, honest mind and heart, and, with Georgia, the nation mourns. His family and friends mourn him, not as one who died without hope of the future, but they know that he died as he had lived, an honest man and a Christian gentleman, and that—

Beyond the sunset's radiant glow,
There is a better land we know,
And that in that better land the soul of their loved one—
Rests under the shade of the trees."

In eulogy of Mr. Brownlow there was also a variety of poetical allusions, shorter than those applied to Senator Clay, probably because the fitness of things did not demand such ponderosity for a plain representative. Here is one from Shakespeare, a good one, it is true, but one so often used that it is hackneyed:

"His life was gentle and the elements
So mixed in him that Nature might stand up
And say to all the world, 'This was a man.'"

Brownlow was praised for his admiration of Andrew Jackson and his veneration for Jackson's grave. This brought in the following lines from Halleck:

"Such graves as his are pilgrims' shrines,
Shrines to no code or creed confined,
The Delphian voices, the Palestines,
The Meccas of the mind."

The logic of this address was, that many of the splendid qualities of manhood attributed to Jackson were possessed in a marked degree by Brownlow. After concluding the parallel between Brownlow and Jackson the speaker closed with part of the beautiful stanza from Bryant already quoted above.

Representative Hawley of Oregon, speaking in praise of the late Congressman Tirrell of Massachusetts, delivered a very pretentious oration in which he had two sublime passages from Shakespeare, one from Ruskin's "Ethics of the Dust," and this notable reference to character:

"Worthy human character is everywhere the greatest purely human thing in the world. And when—

The cloud-capp'd towers, the gorgeous palaces,
The solemn temples, the great globe itself,
Yea, all which it inherit, shall dissolve;
And, like this insubstantial pageant faded,
Leave not a rack behind—

worthy men and women shall shine in fadeless immortality."

Mr. Hawley closed his oration with these lines from Tennyson's "In Memorial":

"There is a God who lives and loves,
One God, one law, one element;
And one far-off divine event,
To which the whole creation moves."

A eulogy upon Rep. Gilmore brought out these lines from Matthew Arnold:

"His cabin'd ample spirit
Fluttered and failed of breath,
Tonight he doth inherit
The vasty hall of death."

The same speaker closed by quoting the following from Longfellow:

"There is no death! What seems so is transition;
This life of mortal breath
Is but a suburb of the life elysian,
Whose portal we call Death."

Judging from the number of poetical quotations injected into these speeches we are not surprised to find that the librarian of congress is obliged to have a select book of quotations ready at all times for each member of the house and senate. We had expected, however, to find some of the speakers use one quotation that has been drawn upon on such occasions even to a greater extent than that from Bryant. It is Halleck's well known lines:

"Green be the turf above thee,
Friend of my better days;
None knew thee but to love thee,
Nor named thee but to praise."

SEEN AND HEARD

"I believe it was a good thing for me that they stole the dog, but I took it to heart at the time. I think that dog could lick anything of his weight or five pounds heavier that ever came over the plume and he was a tramp at that." This was the windup of a story told by a fellow who owned a fighting dog some years ago. The erstwhile "dog fighter" dropped in at the city hall yesterday and the conversation turned to dogs. He told of one that he picked up in the street and that afterwards became a champion.

"The dog came to me in the street," he said, "and seemed as if he would like to know me. He didn't look very good to me but there was something in his eyes that won me. 'Do you want to go home with me?' I asked, and he shook his apology for a tail. 'That settled it. I just invited him to come along and he followed me home. Up to that time I had never seen a real dog fight and I didn't believe that the sport was one to be encouraged, but I soon discovered that the dog in question would rather fight than eat. He licked everything in sight, but he had yet to meet a professional champion. I made up my mind that I wouldn't go looking for trouble but that I would give him a try out at the first opportunity. I didn't have long to wait. One day a fellow came to me and said he had a friend from Boston who had heard that he wanted to try out and he wanted me to accommodate his friend. I said I would and to make a long story short, we had at it. His was a blue blood article and the tramp dog put him to sleep.

"The news soon spread that I had a champion and one day I received a challenge from a fellow in Lawrence. I accepted it and seeing that there was a little money bet I was on the anxious seat. One day I met an old fellow in the street and he struck me for a dime. I gave him the dime and then he said something about the dog. I told him about the coming battle and this is what he said: 'If you'll do as I tell you there'll be nothing to the scrap. Get all the old cigar butts you can and boil them; boil them good and plenty and for three days before the fight bathe the dog with the liquid.' The boiling of the cigar butts was not very pleasing to the household and I feared for a time that I would be turned out of the house and home. I followed directions, however, and the fight was pulled off in a field beyond Tyng's Island. The dog from Lawrence was a husky looking brute and it looked bad for the tramp, but after the first grapple I knew that the fellow who gave me the tip was all to the tramp. The Lawrence dog went at the tramp like a roaring lion but he sickened at the first grab. It was a blood-less fight and I won the money. A little later my dog was stolen. I was pretty sore at the time and I went to the police to see what they could do to assist me. I did not succeed in getting any trace of the dog and I believe it was a good thing for me that the dog was stolen.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Jacob A. Rills has written a letter to C. H. Riggs of The Bristol, (Conn.) Press, denouncing the critics of ex-President Roosevelt, and saying among other things:

"I was abroad during the campaign and know nothing of his intemperate language," but I read the newspapers and the lying they did was enough to provoke an honest man to worse things than language, however strong. The lies were paid for of course by the moneyed interests, by Wall street. These started the 'drunken' lie, too, as I happen to know, for old General Howard not long before his death wrote to me that two Wall street acquaintances had assured him that the president (Roosevelt) was drunk every night in the White House. If you can put me on the track of any one circulating these stories you will be rendering a service to your day. The devil.

"Roosevelt drinks just about as much as Lyman Abbott, and the Lord has spared him the grief the vile slanders hunt in his family circle. I would advise you to meet any one of them that you come across with the best declaration that he is a damnable liar. I was going to say a damned liar, but I will leave him to his Maker, who will know how to deal with him more effectively than any earthly judge. It is the existence of such slimy, crawling things on earth that brings one back to the belief in the traditional brimstone pot as the only fit place for them."

Dr. Charles F. Aked, pastor of the wealthy Fifth Avenue Baptist church in New York, is reported to have expressed his disapproval of large salaries, and his desire for a less luxurious field than the one which he serves at a salary of $12,000 a year. He feels that he is not accomplishing anything for the good of mankind.

Another young woman to be selected as the private secretary to a national representative is Miss Elizabeth C. Harris, daughter of Representative-elect Robert C. Harris of New York. It is partly because there are no boys in Judge Harris's family that his attractive 21 year old daughter has been given the position by her father. She is tall and sweet, graceful, and fond of athletics. She has blond hair, large eyes, a well shaped mouth, and the most tactful and charming way of greeting a visitor.

Miss Harris is a graduate of the Bridgewater High school. In speaking of her new task she says:

"Just now I am studying hard to learn all about the duties that go along with a representative's secretary position. Although my father is to be my employer, that does not free me from any of the duties of my position.

"I have always tried to be a good child to my father, and I think that I have been more or less successful, or else he would not have offered to take me to Washington with him as his helper. It is, indeed, a good index to a father's belief in a daughter when he is willing to trust her with his political and business secrets.

"Apart from the question of relationship, no position could be more pleasantly anticipated by me than that of the secretary to one of our statesmen in Washington. Presumably every woman who likes to be independent would be pleased with the idea. I am not one of those who believe that a woman's interests are limited to social and household affairs.

"Undoubtedly if there had been sons to take a man's place, but it can scarcely make a difference whether my father is served by his own son or his own daughter as private secretary, provided the work is faithfully done and his affairs are looked out for in a businesslike way.

"I am now studying stenography and typewriting in Boston, and learning the routine duties of a professional private secretary."

MATRIMONIAL

In the presence of a brilliant gathering of wedding guests from Seattle, Washington, Providence, Pawtucket, Lowell, Boston, and this city, at the home of Mrs. William P. GIRL IS RELEASED

She Was Freed From Madhouse at Matteawan

She Says That She Has Seen Horrible Things—Harry Thaw Is Very Kind to Other People, She Declares

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—"To be free, to eat with people who are not crazy, to hear children laugh, to have little Francis and Morris climb in my lap and kiss me, to be where I can't hear madmen shriek—that is happiness, and I have it," cried 17-year-old Dora Schram, as she sat yesterday in her uncle's home at 1335 Pacific street, Brooklyn. She was freed Saturday from the Matteawan state hospital for the insane.

A strange series of incidents combined to make this young girl an institutional inmate most of her 17 years. Taken from her stepfather's home at 4 years, she was by turns in the Hebrew orphan asylum, the Hebrew Sheltering Guardian society home, the City hospital of Poughkeepsie, the training school for girls at Hudson, and finally the hospital for the insane at Matteawan. Through the efforts of her uncle, Jacob Bercoff, and Norman A. Lees of Brooklyn her sanity was proved and Justice Moschauer freed her.

"My uncle went up to Hudson Saturday and brought me home," she said yesterday. "All the way down on the train I kept pinching myself to be sure the good luck was real."

"At Matteawan the attendants laughed at me and said I should never be free again, because I was insane. You needn't think that you are going home," said one doctor. "You are insane. Besides, we want you for the theatrical performance here. No one can shake a lambourne like you. The judge will send you back."

"When they are going to have an entertainment they always ask the same ones to perform. There are about 15 among the women. They don't dare ask the crazy ones. And they actually wanted me to stay to help in the entertainment. But I wanted to get away, I had seen so many horrible things there."

There was the suicide of Baroness Louise de Massay, who was sent up there for killing an old man in New York. She was silent and sorrowful about the wards and the attendants didn't like her. One day I entered ward two and saw the woman attendant sitting in the corner reading a book. Against the wall something was hanging. At first I thought it was a bundle of clothing, but then I saw it was a woman hanging. She'd made a rope of a sheet or her apron or something and had hanged herself while the attendant was sitting in the room. "I ran up to the attendant and cried, 'There's one of your patients for you!' She jumped up and cried, 'O my God!' and got a knife and cut her down. She fell to the floor like a bag and the fall broke her neck the doctors said after-

ARREST LAWYER

On Charge of Using the Mails in Fraud

BOSTON, Feb. 28.—Charged with using the mails in a scheme to defraud, Howell T. Wood, a lawyer, with an office in the Carney building on Tremont street, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Deputy U. S. Marshal Morse. He was later arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Hayes in the federal building and was held in $1000 bail until this morning. He furnished bonds and was released.

The complaint is brought by P. O. Inspector Dunn, who has been at work on the matter since last December. Wood, it is charged, as the representative of the Equitable corporation and finance company, with offices in the Carney building, sent out circulars to corporations in the south and west offering to float issues of bonds in the east.

The complaint alleges that Wood entered into an agreement with the Corriher mills company of Landis, N. C., to float an issue of $25,000 worth of its bonds in denominations of $500, for which Woods was to receive 5 per cent commission and the expenses of executing the deed of trust to secure the issue and other costs of issuing. The bonds were of the par value of $100 and were to be sold at the rate of $90.

The charge is made in the complaint that there is no Equitable corporation and finance company, and that therefore Wood could not carry out his promises to the Corriher company. Hence the bringing of the charge of unlawfully using the mails.

$500,000 SUIT

Has Been Referred to an Auditor

BOSTON, Feb. 28.—The suit for $500,000 brought by Frederic L. Small against Arthur H. Soden, the millionaire business man and former owner of the Boston National league baseball team, will be heard in private before an auditor.

This arrangement was decided upon by Judge Brown yesterday in the Suffolk superior court when the action which is brought by Mr. Small for the alleged alienation of his wife's affection by Mr. Soden and the subsequent desertion by Mrs. Small, came up for trial on schedule.

Both sides were prepared to go on with the case, George Libby and Thomas J. Boynton representing Mr. Small and Henry L. Hurlbut appearing for Mr. Soden. Mr. Hurlbut asked that the case be continued further because of a report and discussion of the case, which, counsel for Mr. Soden believed would be prejudicial to his case.

After several conferences between the attorneys and the court, during which some of the prospective testimony was outlined, Judge Brown suggested that the case be sent to an auditor, although counsel for Mr. Small wished to go to trial before a jury.

Among the names suggested to Judge Brown for auditor was that of Judge Robert O. Harris, who has just resigned from the superior court to go to congress and also practice law. If Judge Harris was selected by Judge Brown he would enter upon his assignment soon after relinquishing his place on the bench.

THE CREW SAFE

Schooner Sylvia Nunan Was Lost

GLOUCESTER, Feb. 28.—The schooner Sylvia Nunan, of Kenebunk, Me., was run down and sunk by the schooner Grayling two miles off "Thatchers" Island shortly before midnight last night. All of the crew of the Nunan reached the deck of the Grayling in safety and were landed here today. The Nunan in command Captain Holbrook was bound for Boston from an eastern port and the Grayling was coming to Gloucester from Portland with a cargo of codfish.

Each skipper blamed the other for the collision. It is believed the vessels were holding their courses too long and that the collision resulted, because neither would give way. The Grayling struck the Nunan on the starboard side, smashing a great hole in the hull. Two of the Nunan's crew were on watch at the time and six others were asleep in the forecabin. Five of the men in the forecabin managed to reach the deck by the command ladder and clambered on board the Grayling. The sixth man, John Goodrich, did not have time to climb up the stairs. He took the only chance offered him and plunged through the hole that had been smashed in the side of the Nunan. He was able to secure a hold on the Grayling's cable and pulled himself to the schooner's deck. The Nunan sank within two minutes after the crash. The schooner Sylvia M. Nunan was built at East Boothbay, Me., in 1903. She registered 53 tons net, was 75 feet long, 20 feet beam and 8.02 deep.

BLOWN FROM TRAIN

Newburyport Man Had Narrow Escape From Injury

NEWBURYPORT, Feb. 28.—Blown from a Boston & Maine train traveling 40 miles an hour, Harold A. Eldredge, aged 26, son of Capt. and Mrs. Sidney B. Eldredge of 65 Federal street, this city, escaped serious injury. One arm was badly sprained, more or less scratched and bruised and he was unnerved by the shock.

Mr. Eldredge left Boston, where he is employed, at 5.35. Shortly after the train had passed through Rowley he attempted to go from one car to another and had hardly reached the platform when the wind, which was blowing a gale, inflated a heavy coat he was wearing and whirled him through space.

Striking the ground near an embankment, he was turned over and over, finally bringing up against a telegraph pole. He was dazed by the fall but soon rallied and noted that he was near Newbury. He slowly walked back to Rowley and from there telephoned to his mother, telling of his safety. Later he boarded the 6.10 train out of Boston and arrived here at 8. He was met at the station by his father and by the pastor, Rev. Dr. W. H. Nugent and taken home in a carriage. He was then examined by a physician. Mr. Eldredge's fall from the train was noted by a woman passenger, but she did not give an alarm until it was too late to stop. Officer Haley and citizens went from here on the 7.21 train to search the track between Rowley and Newbury as it was supposed the young man had been killed or seriously injured.

Mr. Eldredge is a graduate of a local business college and went to Boston to work last fall.

RAILROAD EMPLOYEES EXAMINATION

BOSTON, Feb. 28.—An annual mental examination for all railroad and street railroad employees found few supporters, but a large array of corporation attorneys in opposition at a hearing on the measure today before a legislative committee. Dr. P. C. Smith spoke in favor of the measure as a guard to public safety while the bill was opposed on the ground that it was unnecessary.

THE CHICAGO ELECTION

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—Primary election day for mayor and other city offices opened cloudy but with the weather bureau's promise of "fair weather for the day." Workers for the five republican and three democratic aspirants for the mayoralty nomination by their respective parties were out early, but in spite of predictions of fraud no trouble had been reported an hour after the voting began. A heavy vote was expected.

NEW CLAIMANT TO ESTATE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 29.—A new claimant to a share in the "Lucky" Baldwin estate appeared today when Mrs. Laura P. Alsip, of Illinois filed a paper in the probate court asserting that she is a daughter of the late turfman. She alleges that before 1850 Baldwin was known as "William H. Baldwin," and that under that name he was married to Ophelia Henderson at Chillicothe, O. September 9, 1845. Mrs. Alsip asserts that she was born of that marriage. The further charge is made that Baldwin abandoned his wife in 1859 and took the name of Elias Jackson Baldwin. Mrs. Alsip asks for one-third of the estate.

OPPOSED TO ANNEXATION

RIVERSIDE, Cal., Feb. 28.—"Canada will never be annexed to the United States," said Dr. James McDonald of Toronto at the conference of the World's Peace Foundation yesterday. "Neither will Canada or the United States ever oppose each other in war! The peace that has lasted between our two nations for a century past will last through all the centuries to come."

The conference was attended by several persons of national reputation, including Dr. David Starr Jordan who presided, Charles W. Fairbanks, John Burroughs, the naturalist, Bishop Lawrence of Massachusetts, and Albert K. and Daniel Smiley, the Lake Mohonk peace conference evangelists.

AGAINST RECIPROCITY

Head of National Grange Sends Appeal to Pres. Taft

CONCORD, N. H., Feb. 28.—Nabum J. Bachelier of this city, master of the National Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, today mailed to President Taft at Washington an appeal against Canadian reciprocity, asserting that the measure will greatly reduce farm values and result in a general calling in of loans on farm lands, thus tending to create a financial panic. The letter says in part:

"It cannot be successfully denied that the effect of this bill will be to reduce the prices paid to a large proportion of our farmers for their products. This being the case it follows that there will be an immediate fall in the value of our farm lands in all sections affected by Canadian competition. It is estimated that the loans on farm lands in this country amount to three billion dollars and a large part of these loans have been made out on the supposition that farming was to continue to be as profitable in the future as in recent years. The enactment of the reciprocity bill would at once result in a general calling in of hundreds of thousands of loans; farms would be sold at a sacrifice; the stability of many banking institutions would be endangered; and the direct and immediate effect of this bill becoming law would be to precipitate a financial convulsion that would be worse than the panic of 1907."

MATRIMONIAL

The marriage of Mr. Henry W. Alford and Miss Eva Sautner was solemnized this morning at St. Louis church. The ceremony was performed at a mass celebrated at 8 o'clock by Rev. Fr. Jacques. The bride was attended by Mr. Salome Roussel, while the groom's witness was his father, Mr. Jean Baptiste Alford. OFFERS OF BETS GUESTS ESCAPED

On Standing of League
Teams

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—There were received here yesterday by express from Kentucky, circulars of the syndicate which offers to accept bets on the outcome of the approaching pennant contests in the National and American baseball leagues and the American association, and also on club series.

The circular caused some uneasiness among the local baseball men who were quick to denounce the scheme. It is understood that immediate steps will be taken by the officials of the National and American leagues to check, if possible, what they consider a menace to the national game. Gambling has long been tabooed in professional baseball and the feeling seems general that it is now brought into the game it will be to its detriment.

The syndicate announces in its circular that it is willing to accept bets of $5 or over, which shall be sent by express, telegraph or telephone. According to the "book" it has planned, $5 to $10 is offered that New York does not finish first in the National league race.

In the American league Philadelphia is made favorite, with 6 to 5, 1 to 2, and 1 to 5 that they do not finish first, second or third.

The circular says it is the company's object to "give the baseball enthusiasts the chance to support their judgment," and in the straight race for the pennant an opportunity to back their preferences in the three leagues for first, second, third or fourth places. The company also offers to lay odds against the standing of clubs at the end of the first half of the season, to include the games played July 8. In fact, every sort of combination for wagering is held out for "fans."

GREAT MEETING

OF SACRED HEART PAROCHIAL SCHOOL ALUMNI

A very enthusiastic meeting of the recently organized alumni of the Sacred Heart parochial school was held at the parochial school hall Sunday afternoon. Fully two hundred of the members were present to arrange for the entertainment to be given on the eve of St. Patrick's day. An instructive address was given by Rev. James T. McDermott, O. M. I., an alumnus of the school and also president of the association. He spoke of the purpose of the organization of the alumni of a school and outlined the field of usefulness which opens itself to the members. He then enlarged on plans which are already underway for the formation of a choral society, a dramatic club and debating club. He also mentioned the recently formed Diocesan Choral Society, to which it is hoped the local organization may soon be in a position to send delegates.

A rehearsal of the program for Mar. 18th was then held and enthusiasm ran high as strains of the beautiful Irish melodies carried in solo, unison and part singing, rose in the hall. These airs are part of a musical sketch, "Uncle Patrick's Birthday," written for the occasion by a young lady of the parish. The presentation of this sketch marks the first appearance of the alumni as an organization, and no pains are being spared to make the evening a success.

Hotel Was Damaged by Fire

BERLIN, N. H., Feb. 28.—Aroused from their sleep by shouts of fire, the 23 guests of the Central house clamored out of the windows and made their escapes as best they could last night leaving most of their clothing and valuables behind. Several were carried down ladders by the firemen and all escaped without serious injury.

The fire started just after 10 o'clock and although the firemen were early on the scene the high wind and low temperature hampered them considerably and it was two hours before the blaze was under control. The loss is estimated at upwards of $10,000. The cause of the fire is unknown.

The building, a wooden structure, three stories in height, was owned by Peter McCrystle, while the proprietor of the hotel was A. A. Trafton.

GIRL A HEROINE

She Rescued Friends
From Drowning

CHICOPEE, Feb. 28.—A brave barfooted girl, 13-year-old Josephine Pizroki, rushed into the icy waters of the Chicopee river late yesterday and rescued from drowning two little girl friends, while her collar dog "Beauty" was less successful in attempting to save the life of a third child, Mary Zybura, aged 13 years, who was drowned.

The Pizroki girl from the window of her home saw the three girls go down through the ice and although barfooted, Josephine rushed out and rescued two of the girls.

The coils which already has a record of saving a man from drowning, dove into the water after Mary Zybura and seized her by the hair. She started ashore with her but the child became frantic and battled with the dog, with the result that the animal released the child.

"NATOMA," A SUCCESSFUL GRAND
OPERA, WRITTEN BY AMERICANS

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—The production of "Natoma," a grand opera in English, is probably the most notable event of the year in operatic and musical circles. The opera, written by Americans, produced in English and given its initial presentation in an American city, marks a new era in the operatic world, where European composers and European tongues have long reigned predominant. The music was composed by Victor Herbert; the libretto was written by Joseph D. Redding. The opera has been produced successfully at the Philadelphia Opera House and was then transferred to New York, to the Metropolitan Opera House. In the cast were many notable stars. In the accompanying illustration Mary Garden is shown in the titular part of Natoma, an Indian maiden, and Lillian Granville as Barbara, a Spaniard. Many public officials and foreign diplomats, etc., attended the opening New York performance. The new opera is American in theme, in scene and treatment. The story is sung in three acts. The scene is in Santa Cruz and in Santa Barbara, Cal., with its ancient mission and its hacienda. The time is 1820.

The basketball game proved to be a good one, although rather one-sided. Company G winning by a score of 34 to 8. Company M put up a good game but lack of team work was responsible for its defeat.

Company M won the shoot by just one point, the score being: M 21, G 20. BOXING GOSSIP

The Ad Wolgast-Knockout Brown bout is the "big noise" in boxing circles this week. Wolgast and Brown meet next Friday night at Tom New York.

O'Rourke's National sporting club in ten rounds. This is the greatest light weight battle offered in the east since the days of the Horton law. Fight fans from New York, Philadelphia, and Boston, Providence, New Haven and other cities will flock to the ring to witness this combat. Ad Wolgast was born in Scotland. He is a German and stands five feet four and a half inches in his stocking feet. He began boxing in 1906 and kept constantly climbing to the top of the lightweight ladder until Feb. 22, 1910, when he defeated Battling Nelson in forty rounds in a battle for the world's lightweight championship. They met at Port Richmond, Cal. (which is just outside of San Francisco). Wolgast won the title that day and has held it ever since. He is engaged in but four contests in the past year. Three of his four opponents have been rated as "marks." The only real live one he has met is his opponent to be—Knockout Brown.

Wolgast and Brown met in a six round bout in Philadelphia a couple of weeks ago and while there was no decision given, the newspapers credited Brown with being the champion. Before the contest Wolgast looked on Brown as a joke. He expected he would scare the New Yorker half to death and take all the fight out of him when he entered the ring. He made a grave mistake, for Brown didn't work a particle when Wolgast walked over to his corner to shake hands with him just before the contest was to start. And much to Wolgast's surprise, Brown plied right into him at the top of the gong and gave him quite a "whaling." The first round easily belonged to the lad from Gotham. Brown continued the good work in the second round. He pounded the champion from one corner of the ring to another. The third and fourth rounds were rather even. In the fifth and sixth Wolgast took the aggressive and had the better of these two rounds. Wolgast claimed after the contest that he had under-rated Brown and held him too cheaply. Tom O'Rourke witnessed the bout and immediately went after them for a ten round bout to be held at his club. Both boys accepted. Brown has been doing well against the topnotchers for the past few months. He has beaten Bert Keyes, Tommy Murphy, Kid Goodman and a few others. Brown is the only boxer in the country who can claim the distinction of knocking out Kid Goodman, the Boston lightweight. This is a feat to be proud of, for Goodman has engaged in over 150 battles and met the best men ever known to the featherweight and lightweight classes. Brown's friends are willing to wager even money that he will win from Wolgast, but the "wise ones" are playing Wolgast.

Tommy Quill will meet Paddy Lavin of Buffalo. The original match was to be Jimmy Gardner vs. Tommy Quill, but Gardner injured one of his hands in his contest with Jack Dillon at Indianapolis last week and was forced to withdraw from the match.

Bangor, Me. fans will see a scrap Saturday night between Andrew Morris, the New England heavyweight champion, and Jack Lenn, who has won great fame as a wrestler. Lenn has been after a match with Morris for some time. Jack will have to step some to hold his own with the Boston blacksmith.

Billy Nixon, the fast Cambridge lightweight, who has been coming down the line rapidly will meet Kid Scaler of Spokane, Wash. at Bartley Connelly's Portland, Me. club next Saturday night. This is the best lightweight scrap arranged for Maine in years.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Feb. 28.—A challenge has been received from the Lawn Tennis association of Great Britain for the Dwight F. Davis international lawn tennis cup.

The United States National Lawn Tennis association sent a challenge for the Davis cup about three weeks ago.

FRANK GOTCH

THREW TWO MEN WITHIN TWENTY MINUTE LIMIT

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Frank Gotch, the world's champion heavyweight wrestler, undertook to throw three men, allowing them 20 mins. each last night. He downed Fritz Mohl, a Swiss, in seven minutes, 56 seconds and put Yankee Rogers of Buffalo down in 16 minutes, 25 seconds, but Wm. Demetral, a Greek, was so strong and agile that the 20 minutes passed without his being thrown.

CALLER A DRAW

DELMONT AND DYSON WENT 15 ROUNDS

THORNTON, R. I., Feb. 28.—Fifteen

Voster of Cato, are to the effect that Voster's prize Holstein Friesian cow, Daisy Cornucopia, has established a new world's record by producing 34 1/2 pounds of butter in seven days. This exceeds by two pounds the former world's record held by Pontiac Glade. The new record holder is four years old.

LEADER MURPHY

Makes an Attack on Shepard

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—The usually silent Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany hall, broke a precedent last night and issued a nine page type-written statement replying to a bitterly attacking editorial in the Daily Express, which characterized Murphy's dominance as a "voting trust" in his letter of Sunday withdrawing from the United States senatorship fight. He holds Mr. Shepard directly to blame for the deadlock at Albany and says that he is inclined to believe that Mr. Shepard and his friends would not have been so quick to criticize Tammany had he said that Shepard's friends begged his (Murphy's) support.

MEXICAN INSURRECTOS

Captured the City of Fronteras
After a Battle

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Feb. 28.—The city of Fronteras, capital of the Mexican district, south of Douglas, is today in the hands of a band of 200 Insurrectos. It was captured yesterday after a brief battle in which five rebels were killed. The resistance was offered by a little squad of militiamen within the town. The Insurrectos surrounded the town early yesterday and ordered the federals to surrender, the hour for capitulation being set for 10 o'clock. As the town had not formally surrendered at the hour set the rebels entered the streets a little later from every direction, shooting overhead.

The rebels also captured the Naco Zari-railroad and control transportation facilities to Agua Prieta just across the line from Douglas. When the train for Douglas arrived at Fronteras it was surrounded by 150 rebels under command of "Beto" Lopez who is well known in Douglas. The train was held at Fronteras.

The government troops at Agua Prieta have been ordered southward to attack the rebels. Another large force of rebels, reported as numbering from 200 to 500 appeared yesterday at Campbell's ranch, east of the junction of the Revolution and Buvispe rivers.

REVOLUTIONISTS LEADER

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb. 28.—"I do not believe there are any envoys or police of the Mexican government in San Antonio," said Alphonse Madero, leader of the revolutionists last night on his arrival from Corpus Christi. "Envoys tried to deal with me at Corpus Christi a couple of days ago, but I referred them to Dr. Gomez in Washington."

Fernando Madero, another brother, said that peace commissioners were already in San Antonio.

"The envoys did not have credentials and seemed greatly surprised when Senor Gomez demanded them. I know that one of the envoys was a close friend of President Diaz. The others they made it accompanied by credentials would have been acceptable a short time ago, but I am now doubtful about their outcome."

COMMISSIONER HOWE

Of the Charity Board Makes Important Recommendations

Harry W. J. Howe of the board of charities has in mind a number of changes and improvements he believes should be made at the Chelmsford street hospital and he will probably suggest them at the next meeting of the board.

He believes there should be a house doctor at the hospital and more graduate nurses. He believes there are too many cases there to be cared for by a visiting physician, and he figures that young doctors would be willing to spend a year there for a salary probably not exceeding $50 a month. He believes in the abolition of the office of city physician, for he says it does not meet present demands.

He says that the number of nurses at the hospital at the present time is inadequate, and he bases his statement on the fact that one nurse at the hospital has 50 patients to look after. He is also in favor of an increase in pay for nurses and attendants. The nurses at the present time are receiving $1.07 a day and the attendants receive 53 cents a day. Both nurses and attendants are on duty from 14 to 16 hours a day.

He also recommends a big change in the territory assigned district physicians and believes that doctors with big practices should not seek the position.

He says the district physicians should be young men whose practice has not grown to such an extent as to render it impossible for them to give the necessary attention to the district work. He is also sternly opposed to district physicians calling upon other doctors to do their district work without the consent of the board. The districts covered by the six city physicians were assigned them under the old ward lines and he believes restricting is absolutely necessary.

SEEKS REWARD

For the Arrest of Her Lover

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 28.—Mabel Brown, 13 years old, of Greenville, wants $1500 reward for finding the murderer of Miss Mary E. Eddy, because she says the clew which sent her lover, Earl V. Jacques, to state prison last month for life was furnished by her.

A hearing has been ordered by the town council of Smithfield for March 25 upon the claims of persons who have filed petitions for the reward. Inspectors John T. Haran and George H. Monahan of the Providence police department have filed their claims. They arrested Jacques.

At the time of the murder Gov. Higgins offered a reward of $500, the town council of Smithfield offered a similar amount, as did the Greenville women mill, where Miss Eddy was an operative.

Miss Brown's claim is being vigorously championed by her stepfather, Isaac Brown, on the ground that Mabel received the $10 bill which was in the slain woman's pay envelope. This bill was changed for Jacques, who gave his sweetheart 50 cents for her trouble. Later she told all about the occurrence. The administrator of Town Sergt. Jenckes Smith also claims the reward.

INHALED GAS

BODY OF MAN WAS FOUND IN CLOSET

NORTH ADAMS, Feb. 28.—Joseph McNine, aged 55, committed suicide at his place of business here last night by inhaling illuminating gas.

McNine was located in the Wright block and a tenant on the second floor detected the odor of gas, and a search for the leak traced the trouble to McNine's place.

The body of McNine was found in a closet. McNine had taken the burner from the gas pipe and had attached a tube, which he had placed in his mouth.

WOMAN OF 39

TO TAKE YOUNG MAN OF 21 AS HUSBAND

LEXINGTON, Feb. 28.—The news that Miss Nan Dow Plummer of 377 Massachusetts avenue and Alfred D. Darling of 107 Auburn street, Cambridge, had taken out a marriage license in that city yesterday was a great surprise to the friends of Miss Plummer here. Miss Plummer gave her age to the city clerk as 39 years, while the prospective groom gave his age as 21 years.

The couple have been seen together much of late, but the friends of Miss Plummer had no thought of matrimony. Miss Plummer is an artist employed in Boston, while the prospective groom appears to be a young man of means and is the son of Henry Darling of Cambridge.

HARLEM ROBBERS

Loot Home of a Tobacco Merchant

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Two armed men forced their way into the Harlem home of Cesare Virgil, a tobacco merchant yesterday, gagged Kathleen Sanchez, a servant, and escaped with $1200 in jewelry and diamonds. Two workmen who recently repaired furniture in the house are suspected, as Mr. and Mrs. Virgil met them on the sidewalk, as they left the house yesterday to go downtown.

When the maid opened the door in response to a ring, half an hour later, one of the two men stuck a revolver into her face and warned her not to shout. Still with fright she stood in her tracks while the second man gazed at her. The men then carried her up three flights of stairs to a bedroom, where they bound her to the bed with knotted sheets and blankets. She worked herself free after struggling nearly an hour, tore the gag from her mouth and ran to the skylight. Just as her screams for help began to attract attention the two men walked out of the basement door and escaped.
